BRITISH PLANES RAID NAZI COAST

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The British air force carried the war to Germany's shores today in an outburst of renewed air and sea warfare coming only one day after Prime Minister Chamberlain's warning that grim days are ahead.

The British sent warplanes over German's northwest coast in what they called reconnaissance flights and "security patrols" over German mine-laying bases in the Frisian Islands.

Dispatches from Copenhagen indicated that the Britons ran into battle. Vivid flashes through the early dawn and the rumble of cannonading along with the sighting of numerous aircraft indicated an air battle over the island of Sylt, German air base.

This followed a sudden bomb and machine-gun attack by German warplanes upon 12 ships in British coastal waters yesterday. The German communique asserted that eight vessels were sunk; the British acknowledged the sinking of only two.

SEE AIR "BLITZKRIEG"

The Admiralty announced today that the 1985-ton British vessel Oakgrove was sunk with an undetermined number of casualties after an attack from the air, and that the 689-ton British steamer Gowrie also went down.

The Admiralty said today that two Danish ships, the 3369-ton Ivan Kondrup and the 955-ton Feddy, attacked yesterday and previously reported sunk, had been found afloat and probably would be brought into port.

Some observers believed the sudden German attacks might be the prelude to an aerial "blitzkrieg," or lightning war, such as has been threatened by Berlin many times.

BLOWN UP BY MINE

Along with this renewed activity it was expected that young Britons of the ages of 20 to 22 years, inclusive, registered in December, would be called to arms shortly, bringing an additional 240,000 men under the colors.

Registration of the age groups from 23 to 27, made liable for military service under King George's Jan. 1 proclamation, is not expected before March at the earliest, it was learned.

Yesterday's attacks on British coastal waters came while Cham-

GITTA ALPAR, BLONDE CZECH ACTRESS
Tells Real Story of Goebbel's Beating

Gives 'Inside Story' Of Goebbels Beating

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Beautiful Gitta Alpar, blonde Czech film actress, here as a refugee from Germany, today told the "inside story" of the now famous beating German Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels received at the hands of her ex-husband, Gustav Froelich.

The "Jean Harlow of Berlin" said the story of the Goebbels beating "leaked out" six months after it occurred as a publicity stunt for a new picture Froelich had completed. Various versions reached this country.

Gitta explained she and Froelich were divorced because Hitler discovered she was half Jewish. After the divorce, she related, Froelich took a house adjoining that of Goebbels. He became friendly with Frau Goebbels.

The actress said that when Froelich became interested in another charmer, Lida Barova, also an actress, Mrs. Goebbels warned him that her husband "was seeing a good deal" of Miss Barova.

Froelich, she said, awaited his opportunity. It came when he found Goebbels and Miss Barova together in a little "Lovers' Lane" between the two houses.

"He hit Goebbels an awful one and gave Lida a smack, too," said Miss Alpar.

War Diary

131st Day

By the Associated Press

German and British aircraft provided the high spot of European war activity today as the Finnish-Russian conflict took a breathing spell of inaction such as has kept the western front quiet for months.

The German high command announced that eight British vessels were sunk in the North sea yesterday during suddenly intensified air raids which some British experts feared were a foretaste of an imminent aerial blitzkrieg.

Acknowledging German air attacks on 11 vessels, the British admiralty said only two had been sunk. British reports described new night scouting flights over northern Germany and said Royal Air Force planes were continuing to patrol German bases in the Frisian islands to choke off Nazi mine-laying activities.

Reports reaching Denmark of cannonading and glimpses of searchlights indicated that a new air battle was fought over the Island of Sylt, northern German air base, early today.

After six weeks of wintry warfare, Finland and Russia slackened the pace of their conflict, but there were indications it might be revived with new fury at any moment.

Stockholders in Dog And Horse Tracks Here Made Public

Names of stockholders in the Bay State Greyhound Association, Inc., and the Old Harbor Kennel Club, Inc., which operate the Revere dog track were made public by the State Racing Commission today after years of controversy.

Names of stockholders in the Eastern Racing Ass'n which operates the horse track at Suffolk Downs were made public at the same time.

The commission refused, however, to reveal the number of shares held by the stockholders, as that information, the commission said was a "privileged document."

Today's publication followed a ruling last week by Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever that such information was public property. For years various legislators and civic reformers had vainly attempted to force the commission to reveal stockholders' identity.

Man's Arrest Reveals Wife Mother at 15

Arrest—and subsequent release—of a celebrating father today disclosed a 15-year-old "child mother" at Lying-In Hospital.

Full details were not revealed as police and hospital authorities threw an air of mystery around the unusal case. Beyond saying the girl mother is Marie Belknap and that her parents live in Milton, officers were noncommittal. They would not reveal the name of the girl mother's parents.

SECRECY IN CASE

Lying In Hoepital authorities likewise were reticent, but they said the girl mother and her baby "are getting along nicely."

The father, Frederick Belknap, 27, of Hudson st., Milton, was seized on charges of larceny, but later freed, police said.

He was unable to explain where he obtained a stethoscope and a nut cracker found in his possession and police couldn't determine whether or not they had been stolen.

Special Officers Harry Wawhinney and Roy Reimer said they found the father intoxicated in Harvard ave., Brighton, Tuesday night.

FREED BY COURT

His inability to explain where he had obtained the instruments caused police to place larceny charges against him, but Judge Thomas H. Connelly dismissed the charges in the absence of proof.

"I don't know where I got those things," Belknap insisted to police durin lengthy uestioning. "I was celebrating."

Police said Belknap was under probation as a result of abduction charges which had been placed against him before he married the Milton girl in Cambridge early in 1939.

Cromwell and Bell Given Senate O.K.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (INS)—The Senate foreign relations committee today approved and sent to the Senate for confirmation the nomination of James H. R. Cromwell, husband of Doris Duke Cromwell, known as the richest girl in the world, to be minister to Canada.

A short time before the finance committee took similar action in the nomination of Daniel W. Bell of Kinderhook, Ill., to be Undersecretary of the Treasury.

TOPPING IS WINNER IN 'LOVE SPY' SUIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—The suit brought against Henry J. (Bob) Topping by a private detective for $5235 he claimed the tin plate heir owed him for obtaining divorce evidence against Topping's first wife, Jayne Shadduck Topping, was dismissed today in federal court.

The detective, Harold Mayhew, said Topping paid him $1700, but not the bonus. Federal Judge Clarence Galston, reserving decision yesterday, intimated he felt no evidence had been offered meriting such a payment.

This view also was held by an attorney for the 26-year-old, $14,000,000 heir, who married Gloria Baker after settling $75,000 on his first wife.

The attorney said the settlement would not have been made had Topping possessed conclusive proof of conditions which friends had brought to Topping's attention.

Nevertheless, an affidavit by a maid of the first Mrs. Topping, Josephine Thompson, was offered by counsel for the detective in which the maid said she had served meals to her mistress and another man in a bedchamber for a week.

"I saw Mrs. Topping and Cordova in bed together . . . on many occasions. Mrs. Topping and Cordova acted in an intimate manner. They kissed and called each other dear, darling, honey and so forth." This took place in an apartment in Hempstead, N. Y., the affidavit said.

13 ROW 20 MILES AS BOAT SINKS

Their vessel sinking beneath them in icy seas and a thick fog, 13 fishermen aboard the mackerel seiner Hoop-La today rowed almost 20 miles to shore at Brant Rock, reaching haven as they were near exhaustion from exposure to zero weather.

At the Coast Guard station Capt. Joseph Cottone told his story to Boatswain F. E. Holbrook, who rushed hot coffee and blankets to the nearly frozen men.

Capt. Cottone said his vessel struck a submerged object about 20 miles off Plymouth and sank within an hour as he and his men toiled at the pumps in a vain effort to keep her afloat.

Taking to a small lifeboat the men headed in a westerly direction and toiled at the oars for hours before sighting land. A pea-soup fog cut visibility to a minimum and not until they heard the roar of the surf were they certain of safety.

The men took turns at the oars in their long and tedious trip, each eager to row to fight off the bitter cold which left them numb.

Almost overloading their tiny rescue craft they heaved at their sweeps through darkness and fog for hours until the breaking waves told them they were traveling in the right direction.

Search for the submerged object which caused their vessel to sink will be made by Coast Guard patrol boats. It is believed a recently wrecked derelict caused the near-tragedy.

Dighton Dog Probe Halts Suddenly

After listening to testimony from Henry J. Duffy of Atlantic st., North Quincy, a second cousin of Edmund L. Dolan, former city treasurer now in Charles st. jail, the federal grand jury probing the Dighton dog track suddenly suspended today.

Duffy was recalled this morning after a surprising "break" in the case yesterday which found him lodged with U. S. Atty. Edmund L. Brandon and his assistants for three hours.

He had been testifying before the grand jury yesterday when suddenly the jurors ceased deliberations and escorted him to Brandon's office.

After listening to him for three quarters of an hour today the jury suspended its Dighton investigation. He was given another subpoena ordering him to reappear when wanted.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Henry M. Leen, who has been handling the case announced after Duffy's departure that the jury would continue its Dighton probe either late today or tomorrow.

Federal authorities say Duffy was listed as an employe at the track at a salary of $15,000.

Again today Miss Alice L. Murphy of Gallivan blvd., Boston school teacher, was waiting her turn to testify before the grand jury. She was listed as one of the stockholders in the track who are reported to have received 1500 per cent in dividends.

ISABELLE DESHLER
Coast "Juliet"

Coast Juliet Spurns Her Romeo

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Pretty Isabelle Deshler says it's all off—her "romance" with John B. Adams, the 32-year-old Romeo who took to the law courts in an effort to prevent his prospective mother-in-law from cramping his romantic style.

"I do not love Mr. Adams and I have no intention of ever marrying him," Isabelle announced curtly last night.

And her mother added:

"Of all the people for my daughter to marry, this man would be the last."

This put a decided chill on the Romeo and Juliet affair which Adams hoped would end like a similar case in New York involving George Lowther and the former Eileen Herrick, who were married last week.

Adams, collection agency executive who employed Miss Deshler as stenographer until a few weeks ago, spent most of yesterday vainly knocking on the Deshler door, telephoning and sitting on the front door step.

He has a superior court order compelling Mrs. Deshler to bring her 24-year-old daughter to court Friday so Judge Lyle T. Jacks can determine if Juliet is being kept from Romeo against her will.

Winthrop Asks Stay In Closing Down of Narrow Gauge Line

With a fund of $15,000 to back them up, Winthrop's new transportation committee of seven members today asked bondholders for a stay in the shutdown of the financially ailing Narrow Gauge Railroad, scheduled for January 27.

Meanwhile, residents of Revere, Point of Pines and Oak Island, points served by the Narrow Gauge main line, scheduled a mass meeting for Friday night at the Revere City Hall to decide what should be done if the railroad's end comes.

This mass meeting will consider proposals for bus service by the Eastern Massachusetts from the Pines through the Sumner Tunnel to Boston and for a trackless trolley or bus lines to the Pines.

Not unalterably opposed to the Boston Elevated plan but seeking a better and "fairer" one, was the Wintnrop committee as it bent its efforts toward compromise in the conference with bondholders.

CROCKER CHAIRMAN

Appointed by Town Moderator Joseph L. Davidson in conformity with the vote taken at Monday night's meeting, when Winthrop voted 117 to 104 against the Elevated plan, the committee is under the chairmanship of Frederick L. Crocker.

Other members of his committee are Town Engineer Canning Howard, Herbert S. Avery, an attorney, Oliver F. Green, town assessor, H. Dwight Hall, Boston insurance executive, Walter G. Baker, chairman of the Board of Selectmen and Town Clerk Donald S. McLeod.

The committee sought immediate action as it appeared plain that the bondholders would carry out their plan to shut down Winthrop's only means of rapid transit on the date sanctioned by the U. S. District Court.

Stressing the need for haste, Charles A. Collins president of the Lynn Institution for Savings, chairman of the bondholders' committee, sent word to Winthrop that he would call his committee together for an immediate conference.

ASKS DOWD 'AIDE' BE ARRESTED

Arrest of a Dorchester youth, alleged contact man and "go-between" for John F. Dowd, fugitive sheriff, and members of his family, was ordered today by Dist. Atty. Foley.

Foley and Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle were in conference shortly before noon with two men summoned to their office after they had received information as to Dowd's contacts with his family in the past week.

ARREST ORDERED

Immediately after the conference ended the arrest was ordered. Special Officer Leo Devlin of the Dudley st. station was assigned to the case and ordered to pick up the Dorchester youth on sight.

It was reported to the district attorney's office that the young man, formerly in Dowd's employ, had arranged for members of the ex-sheriff's family to talk to him on the telephone at a close neighbor's home.

The district attorney was also informed that the youth had such close contact with Dowd that he arranged for the return of some of the missing official's luggage over the Christmas holidays and also by arrangement met Mrs. Dowd at the railroad station on her arrival here New Year's Eve.

PHONE TALK REPORTED

Even the text of part of Dowd's conversation by telephone was reported to the district attorney's office. On his Christmas time calls he exchanged holiday greetings with members of his family, and it is reported gave certain instructions as to things he wished done in his absence.

According to information received today, the youth has had contact with Dowd almost continually since the ex-sheriff fled.

H. L. Connolly Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services of Herbert L. Connolly, 46, of Claremont st., Newton, will be held tomorrow morning at Our Lady's Church. A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrat- at 10 a. m.

H. L. Connolly

Connolly was a widely known businessman, president of Country Homes, Weston, and head of a garage business. He died at Newton Hospital after a short illness.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Connolly, and five children, Mary Frances, Herbert, Jr., Peter Francis, Frederick and Catherine Anne.

He was associated in business with his two brothers, John L. and Frank J. Connolly.

Burial will be in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Architect Ends Own Life

WORCESTER, Jan. 10—With a self-inflicted bullet in his head, Ward P. Delano, 53, an architect, was found dead today in a washroom adjoining his office in Front st.

Delano's partner, Robert L. Fuller, found the body upon his arrival for work. A revolver was near the body.

Fuller said Delano, a bachelor, left a note in which he named the executors of his estate and requested "no funeral," but that his body be cremated.

Named as executors were Mrs. Quackenboss, an aunt, of the Trinity Apartments, in Boston, and Robert Leslie, Riverside, R. I.

State Opens as Doll Girl Death Jury Is Chosen

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 10 (INS)—With a jury finally chosen after two days' questioning of veniremen, the Commonwealth opened its case today against Corp. Benjamin Franklin, state motor policeman charged with the slaying of 14-year-old Joan Stevens, Nesquehoning "doll girl."

A. P. Allen, Mauch Chunk, county detective who investigated the tragedy, was listed as first prosecution witness before the jury of nine men and three women, which with two male alternates was drawn from three panels.

The commonwealth seeks a second degree murder conviction.

Franklin, 35, has admitted firing the eight slugs that killed Joan in a State prowl car in Nesquehoning last June 5 as the trooper and a companion, by their stories, were questioning her.

He claims she first pulled a gun, later found to be a toy, and threatened to "blow his brains out."

BEACH HOTEL IN FLAMES—Answering three alarms, Revere firemen, aided by apparatus from five neighboring cities, battle $25,000 blaze at Hotel Pleasanton, Revere Beach. The caretaker, his wife and daughter fled to safety.

HOTEL PLEASANTON, LANDMARK IN REVERE, SWEPT BY $25,000 FIRE

Driven by a strong off-shore wind, flames today swept the Hotel Pleasanton, Revere Beach landmark, caused a loss of $25,000 and for a while endangered the entire beach front.

Firemen, called by three alarms from the neighboring communities of Chelsea, Winthrop, Lynn, Malden and Everett, battled the flames while the mercury hovered near the 10-degree mark.

Embers, falling fragments of the burning wood structure and ice-coated ladders were a constant hazard to the firemen.

Of six fire fighters injured, Capt. D. J. Smith of Engine 4, Revere, was hurt most seriously when he plunged 35 feet down a flight of stairs. He suffered severe back sprains.

A passing motorist, who discovered the blaze when he noticed flames shooting up the rear of the building, on Ocean ave., broke into the hotel and aroused William Calder, 46, the caretaker; his wife, Florence, 44, and their 13-year-old daughter, Frances. The family escaped in their nightclothing.

The second and third alarms were sounded quickly as fire soon swept across the third floor and burst from the roof. From ladders at the front, on Revere Beach blvd., and sides tons of water were hurled on the flames.

At times, huge flames broke from a cupola in the center of the roof and the glow was visible for miles across the water. Residents of Nahant and Lynn reported sighting the fire.

Firemen checked the blaze from reaching a dance hall on the first floor and saved a cafe in an annex at the rear. Revere and Metropolitan police were forced to reroute traffic along the boulevard and Ocean ave.

Baby Screams Save Life Of Mother

The screams of a two-year-old girl saved the life of her mother today.

The mother, Mrs. Anna Clifford, was overcome by gas in her Roxbury home while the child lay exposed in a cold hallway. Neighbors, awakened by the cries, rescued the young mother.

The woman's life was saved when Frank Bavineau, occupant of a first-floor room in a Regent st. lodging house, said he heard the screams of the infant, two-year-old Patricia Clifford.

As he went to the child's assistance, Bavineau detected the odor of gas, then heard the moans of the mother. He broke into her room, turned off a jet, then tried to give first aid to Mrs. Clifford.

According to police, who were called by Bavineau, the mother's wrists were found slashed and bleeding. The girl was so hysterical that she was unable to describe how she was injured.

The mother was taken to City Hospital, where her name is on the danger list.

SUB-ZERO WEATHER HITS NEW ENGLAND

With sub-zero temperatures prevailing in most of New England, shipping tied up in many harbors and vessels delayed by a freak fog, Boston faced its 11th day of a cold wave today.

The coldest official reported spot in New England was Houlton, Me., where temperatures were 14 below at the Federal weather station. Other communities reported as low as 12 below, and Concord, N. H., reported 9 below. Fitchburg reported 8 below, and Worcester, Lowell, Lawrence and Boston 4 below.

In Concord, N. H., the official thermometer stood at 9 below zero, while Hartford, Conn., reported a low temperature of 6 above. In Boston's Back Bay and South Hingham, the official temperature was 2 below zero. Federal officials in Boston predicted that today's temperature would be the coldest of the year.

TOMORROW WARMER

The weather bureau predicted that temperatures would begin moderating tomorrow, with a rise of several degrees in Boston and vicinity. "Possibly tonight rain or snow, or possibly light rain or snow, will begin in southern New England," the bureau said, "and by tomorrow forenoon will have overspread throughout northern New England."

In Plymouth harbor the Coast Guard patrol was reported to be breaking its way today to the open sea, but the ice was piling up behind it, and it was feared that the path would be broken ice right back into the harbor quickly. Freezing over again.

ICE HINDERS SHIPPING

At Mt. Hope harbor off Fall River, the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet was breaking its way through the ice to open a channel for the steamer Commonwealth, which was scheduled to dock there today, but was unable to do so because of ice. In Quincy, creek, ice was reported to be piling up against the docks, making it impossible for tankers to dock there. Their cargo of oil will be unloaded by two 4-hour effort on each of two powerful tugs to dock the tankers Esso Concord Jones at the Quincy Point docks.

All shipping was delayed in arrival at Boston because of a freak vapor of fog which blanketed Massachusetts Bay, from Dorchester Bay, Quincy Bay, frozen over and was completely immobilized, with the harbor proper was clear, there is ice only around the piers.

10 Girls Seek Queen Role at College Fete

Ten pretty girls and nine husky boys today were named as candidates for the coveted titles of "King" and "Queen" of the 10th annual mardi gras to be held at Bridgewater State Teachers College Friday night.

When finally chosen, the "King" and "Queen" will rule over the traditional frolic, battle of flowers and confetti.

Queen nominees are: Mary Lois Pearson, Quincy; Mary O'Rourke, Quincy; Faye Smith, West Bridgewater; Barbara Lawrence, Quincy; Ruth Nutter, Norwood; Ruth Winckler, Brockton; Gertrude Lewandowski, Brockton; Barbara Kimball, Easton; Waipole; Barbara Lofted, Brockton, and Gertrude Twohig, Brockton.

Crater Widow Settles Suit

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Two insurance companies finally have accepted the claim of Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz that her first husband, Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, is dead, her attorney said today, and agreed to pay her a full and final indemnity of $20,561.

Crater disappeared Aug. 6, 1930, and was declared legally dead June 1939.

The attorney, Emil K. Ellis, said Mrs. Kunz has dropped her claim for double indemnity because proof of the cause of her husband's death is required in accepting the settlement from the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York and the Fidelity Insurance Co. of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Kunz has sought to obtain double indemnity, totaling $60,000. One $10,000 policy, held by Atty. Ellis, was found to have lapsed by the New York insurance firm and was paid by the Philadelphia company.

AUTO DEATHS DOWN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The motor vehicle death toll in the United States declined 4 per cent last year.

Buzzards Tie Up P.R.R. Express

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—An hour's delay of a Pennsylvania Washington flier, as well as unscheduled stops for an engine, was laid by Pennsylvania railroad officials today to the bloodthirsty appetites of buzzards.

The birds were lured to the rear of a pair of box cars, tangled in the wiring, disabled the mechanism and held up the train for an hour until a replacement engine could be sent. The birds were electrocuted.

Ex-Gov. Allen Named As Swett Successor

The name of former Gov. Frank G. Allen of Norwood was submitted to the Governor's Council today by Governor Saltonstall as trustee for Grace Swett.

SKILL OF SURGEONS SAVES SKATE VICTIM

Kept alive by surgical skill, Pierre Amyot, 19-year-old Harvard sophomore, battled death today in the Baker Memorial Hospital, where he was taken after receiving a freak brain injury during a hockey game.

While his grief-stricken parents waited nearby, having rushed to Boston from their home in the city of Quebec, Amyot lay on the operating table and surgeons removed a piece of his skull.

At the same time, the doctors attempted to treat the youth's brain, which was lacerated by the blade of a skate when Amyot fell. The eye operation was performed by Dr. Dunphey while the second operation was carried on by Dr. John Hodgson, brain specialist.

Reds Act to Restore Troops' Lost Morale

HELSINKI, Jan. 10 (INS)—Russia's reported dismay over the failure of the six weeks' Finnish campaign today led to a new cleanup on the front in an attempt to inject new spirit into the Russians.

Gen. L. Z. Mekhlis, highest political army commissar, was said to be en route to the front to "supervise the soldiers' morale."

At Leningrad he called a meeting of under-commissars from all Finnish fronts, and it was decided to call in new commissars from Moscow to "reorganize the spirit" of the troops.

HINT PURGE UNDER WAY

Reports of the reorganization coincided with rumors—often borne out by Russian prisoners—that unrest prevails in Leningrad, that several Red army units have mutinied, and a wholesale purge is being made by the NKVD (successor to the GPU, or secret police).

Gen. Mekhlis' position combines party functions with military duties. While he serves with the army high command, Gen. Mekhlis also is a sort of "watch-dog" over the army for the Kremlin.

Quiet prevailed today on all fronts save the Salla sector, where the Finnish generals held their troops in check while they waited for prevailing sub-zero temperatures and nunger to break the resistance of the Soviets.

At least 12,000 Russians are reported caught in the Finnish trap near Salla and authorities here describe their position as "desperate." With the Finns gradually closing in, it was even asserted that the Russians may surrender without a fight.

REPORT 60 P. C. LOSS

Other reports stated that the Russians lost 60 per cent of the effectives who participated in the Suomussalmi battle which wiped out the Red Army 44th Division and that 2000 Red army survivors, including the divisional chief of staff and 40 officers, surrendered under a flag of truce.

Soviet planes raided six small towns in middle Finland, but damage was slight. One family of four was killed, but no other casualties were reported. An air raid warning was sounded at Abo, but it was believed that no attack materialized.

Suomussalmi Retreat Admitted by Moscow

MOSCOW, Jan. 10 (INS)—Admitting reverses in the campaign against Finland, a Soviet war communique announced that Red army troops had withdrawn "several kilometers" east of Suomussalmi on Finland's north central front. The statement said the Soviet forces fell back as a result of fighting between infantry units. It added:

"There were reconnoissance activities in the Repola and Petrosavodsk sectors. On the Karelian isthmus there was infrequent artillery fire. Aviation was restricted owing to unfavorable weather."

House Body Backs Huge Defense Fund

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The House appropriations committee approved, in general, today President Roosevelt's recommendations for immediate emergency defense and neutrality outlays and proposed that Congress provide $267,197,908 for the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The money would go for work already started or expected to be undertaken during the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, in connection with neutrality patrols, increases in and training of military personnel, and counter-espionage.

The whole outlay was proposed under the President's proclamation of a state of limited national emergency at the start of European war last September.

AMOUNT SLICED

Reporting an emergency appropriation bill to the House, the committee cut $4,801,615 from $271,999,523 recommended by the executive branch. The largest reduction was $2,024,572 in the item of food for the army.

The committee said there had been an excess appropriated for this purpose in earlier appropriation bills for this fiscal year, making the cut more or less o bookkeeping transaction.

The committee's approval of the Administration's recommendations almost without change was characterized by some legislators as not giving an accurate indication of the group's economy-mindedness in this election year.

The White House recommendations for the present emergency bill—which the House will consider tomorrow—were backed with the argument that world conditions made them necessary.

The appropriations recommended by the committee for the four branches were, Army $116,218,345, Navy $145,082,238, Coast Guard $4,422,325, Federal Bureau of Investigation $1,475,000.

MORE ENLISTED MEN

In addition to these appropriations, the committee also approved an authorization for the Navy to proceed with purchases of $2,450,000 worth of ordnance supplies—such as torpedoes, guns, ammunition and powder.

The proposed funds would provide 16,969 more enlisted men for the regular Army, bringing its strength to 227,000; 41,000 officers and men for the National Guard, bringing its strength to 145,000; 6000 men for the Marine Corps, raising it to 25,000; and 2000 for the Coast Guard raising it to 10,866.

The navy would get $28,596,000 to buy 518 aircraft for use on neutrality patrol and $17,882,862 for operation of patrol craft, both sea and air.

BRITISH RAID NAZI AIR BASE

berlain was describing the recent quiet in the war with Germany as "the calm before the storm."

The 10,000-ton Dunbar Castle was broken in half by a mine off the English southeast coast, and British warships were reported hunting a German submarine base in the Canary islands. It was understood the Dunbar Castle was in an outward-bound convoy.

Capt. H. A. Causton and two of the Dunbar Castle's crew were killed; two others were reported missing. Huddled in blankets, the 48 passengers and remainder of the crew of 150 were brought to London early today by rescuers. Nine children and several women were among them.

LARGEST LINER MINED

The Dunbar Castle, which just had begun a voyage for South Africa, was the largest liner mined in coastal waters since the 11,930-ton Japanese ship Tarukuni Maru was sunk Nov. 21.

Many of the survivors were injured, but the total was not ascertained. The rush of water into the hole in the side made launching of boats difficult, and the ship broke in half within 20 minutes, just as the last boat got away.

A British business man passenger who withheld his name gave the following account of the Dunbar Castle sinking:

"We were having a smoke after lunch and naturally were discussing the war. Suddenly it was brought home to all of us.

"There was a loud, dull roar. The vessel seemed to stop and appeared to be listing. All lights below went out.

"The force of the explosion threw us on the floor with chairs and tables piled on top of us. It was a terrible melee.

"Then someone shouted, 'Keep calm and don't make any noise.'

"We obeyed the first order all right, but it was another matter trying not to make noise.

SANK IN 20 MINUTES

"Everywhere there was smoke, which was almost suffocating.

"Assisting one another as best we could, we groped our way to the decks and daylight. The ship was listing badly and water was rushing in as we put on lifebelts and got into lifeboats without panic.

"The ship sank in 20 minutes."

A lightship tender, five fishing vessels and two unidentified craft also were attacked by planes.

Anti-Lynch Bill 'Wrapped Up' For Passage by House Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The anti-lynching bill was wrapped up for House passage today in a torrent of debate over who—if anyone—is playing politics with the Negro vote.

The Democrats said it was the Republicans; the Republicans said it was the Democrats. Despite the argument among supporters of the bill, there was no doubt that it would pass with votes to spare by the end of the day.

The Senate, where leaders are not exactly happy over the arrival of the filibuster-provoking anti-lynch bill, gave its attention to congressional study of federal finances proposed by Chairman Harrison (D.) of Mississippi, of the Senate Finance committee.

Sure of Senate approval, the Harrison proposal apparently is doomed to a House pigeon-hole chiefly because the projected inquiry would delay House consideration of appropriation bills. House leaders, ignoring the Senate, plan to call up the first of the money measures tomorrow.

In the anti-lynching quarrel, the partisan row was stirred yesterday by a remark of Rep. Mitchell (D.), of Illinois, the only Negro in Congress that Republicans were "trying to buy back the Negro vote with this bill."

He said that the Republican party had been "making promises" to the Negro for the last 75 years and was now "discredited" with the race.

"Why all this interest in the Negro at this particular time?" Mitchell demanded, bringing several Republicans to their feet.

Rep. Fish (R.), of New York, wanted to know whether the Negro vote was for sale.

'Every vote in the United States is for sale," Mitchell shot back, not for money but for rights and for justice."

Despite his attack on Republican supporters of the measure, Mitchell made an impassioned plea for its adoption.

Rep. Seccombe (R.) of Ohio entered the argument by reading a letter which he said Mitchell wrote to a constituent last fall. The letter said Mitchell would be glad to take up some matter with WPA provided the constituent followed "customary" procedure by getting a letter from his ward committeeman.

Guterman Quits U. S. Berth

Resignation of Harry N. Guterman as United States commissioner was announced today.

Submitting his resignation to Federal Judge Elisha H. Brewster, Guterman, declared:

"My law practice is calling for more and more of my time."

No immediate successor was announced.

However, recently appointed a U. S. commissioner is Edward Donovan of Dorchester, who, with Commissioner W. Robbins, will share the court assignments for the present.

Guterman, a former assistant attorney-general under Governor Calvin Coolidge, had served as commissioner since February, 1934.

SPRING BOOM SEEN IN CLOTHING TRADE

The coming spring will witness a new boom for the clothing industry, if war continues, in the opinion of delegates to the New England Retail Clothiers and Furnishers Association convention which closes today at the Parker House.

The rise will be noted in the first three months of the year. It was agreed that business would be from 3 to 12 per cent better in 1940.

The trend in Palm Beach suits this year as indicated by the Florida season, will be white and pastel, Elmer Ward, president of the Goodall Co., makers of Palm Beach cloth told the delegates.

White for men's evening wear is gaining in popularity, he said, and there is an amazing acceptance of white evening coats among older men.

Saying he and his brother, Thomas Wykoff Mettler, president of the Interwoven Stocking Co., based their prognostications on the reports of well known business men and diplomats, Thomas Mettler of the Interwoven predicted a boom in the last three quarters of the year.

"One thing that will aid this boom," he said, "is that Germany will make a concerted drive on the British fleet this spring and the coming of warm weather will see intensive fighting in Europe. This we are certain on. I cannot divulge my source of information, but I will say that this forecast of what Germany will do comes from a reliable source—a friend of mine who a few months ago spent hours with Von Ribbentrop. He was told the war would last two or three years."

Richard H. Edwards, of the Jordan Marsh Company was re-elected president of the association during a short business session. Vice-presidents include Harold Thompson of Kennedy's and Ralph Bristol was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Boston men elected directors include Leonard Libbey of the Continental, Harry Ross of Leopold Morse, Sanford Litwin of C. F. Hovey's and Henry Wright of the Jordan Marsh Co.

HENRY — A Twentieth Century Child

Maine Mother of 9 In Anti-War Drive

To a mother of nine sons, one of whom is in the National Guard, the prospect of war for a foreign cause brings understandable dread. She joins with many other New England mothers the National Legion of Mothers of America in the hope that this Legion may help avert a war involving American youth in a cause not their own.

The mother, Mrs. Josephine Pattinson of 47 Myrtle st., Biddeford, Me., writes.

"I am a widow with 9 sons and 7 are of age to go to war. One is already in the National Guard. I pray and hope that I will never see one of them march away to war on foreign soil."

An achievement to which she gladly gave time and effort is recorded by a Waltham mother to whom a pledge in the Legion is a pledge for peace and for the preservation of American manhood from foreign wars.

The mother, Mrs. Marie H. Johnson of Fir ave., writes:

"I have now to date send 71 cards of membership in the Legion, which I secured going from house to house. I am proud of these good mothers responding so generously. It shows how war is not desired.

"Let us hope that this organization will succeed in establishing peace. We all understand that God is with and near those who desire peace. I shall never think that war, with the deliberate attempt to kill, will win a victory. War is a horrible affliction.

"WORK FOR PEACE"

"This is supposed to be an enlightened world, not one that is in total darkness. Therefore, we mothers should heed God's word and work for peace, first in our own homes, then in our neighborhood and then throughout the land."

From a Cambridge mother, Mrs. Lucy E. Harris of 6 Eaton st., comes her pledge to the Legion and her letter:

"I am glad to be among the mothers to join the Legion. I am the mother of three sons and a daughter, and I have one son just at the age for war, and another one soon to be of war age.

"I do not want them to fight on foreign soil. If they must fight let it be for the United States. And I am sending in my pledge."

Another mother to join the Legion is Mrs. Edith Manevitch of 100 Third st., Chelsea, who is willing to have her son fight for America but not for alien causes and on alien soil. Her husband served in the navy during the last war, she writes, and her only son is now in the Air Corps at Langley Field, Va.

"I HATE WAR"

And from Mrs. Mary Caprio of 28 Clarence st., Roxbury, comes a letter expressing the fundamental hatred of mothers for war. She writes:

"I have six sons and would not want to lose any one of them or have them sick or disabled for life. I hate war."

With four sons of war age, Mrs. Rose Bongono of Jarvis pl., Boston, writes:

"I have four sons of military age. One of my sons is very sick and I have suffered with him for four years. I would not want to see my other sons come home from war suffering illness or loss of limbs."

And Mrs. Marie D'Amore of 253 Hanover st., Boston, writes:

"I have five sons who are very dear to me and I do not want to send them across to fight. If they must fight let them fight here."

Hub's First Auto Wedding Bride Dead

Mrs. Charles C. Boogusch, 40, of Compton st., South End, first Boston bride to have an all-auto wedding, is dead today, victim of a two-week illness.

Hers was the first wedding, back in 1900, at which all the guests arrived by auto. At Union Park Hall, where the ceremony was performed, 10 electric automobiles were parked in line.

INFANTILE DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

The "March of Dimes" in battling infantile paralysis was in full swing today—launched by P. A. O'Connell, state chairman of the 1940 Infantile Paralysis Campaign, among 15,000 Federal employes throughout Massachusetts.

The drive for funds to combat infantile paralysis will end Jan. 30, the President's birthday, when every city and town in the state will climax the campaign with the customary President's Birthday balls. Boston's ball at the Garden will be a major event.

Organized effectively, the federal employes' committee will direct the distribution of "March of Dimes" envelopes and the placing of contribution boxes in every section of the state, assisted by the forces of John L. Donovan, Jr., State administrator of the National Youth Administration of Massachusetts.

One half of all the funds collected will be retained in the communities where raised.

State Officials Aid Finn Drive

State officials, prominent clergymen and leading educators will serve as sponsors of the Massachusetts branch of the Finnish Relief Fund, according to an announcement today by Harvey H. Bundy, state chairman at fund headquarters 81 Washington st.

The following, Bundy said, already had agreed to serve: Governor Saltonstall, Cardinal O'Connell, Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Bishop William Lawrence, former Governor Joseph B. Ely, John W. Haigis of Greenfield; Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Mildred McAfee, president of Wellesley College; Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe; Congressman John W. McCormack and Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz.

Funds for the Finnish Relief Fund are being received by the Boston Evening American, Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser. Contributions may be sent to Finnish Relief Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

DAMON RUNYON'S
The Brighter Side

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
Distributed by International News Service

Mr. Frank S. Nugent, the brilliant young film critic of the New York Times, in mentioning recently the diaphanous nature of a small story of our's that was made into a movie, said it was "as transparent as Mr. Runyon himself."

This crack seemed to trouble some of our friends. We have received a number of letters—well, anyway, one and a post card—about it. One letter and a post card on one topic is not a bad average for us. We wish we could brag about the size of our mail but it is really not large. In fact, we understand that Mr. Farley's men quarrel among themselves for the privilege of delivering our mail because it is such a small strain on their muscles.

Around the holidays we get maybe half a dozen cards, probably from people who find they have some left over and send the spares to us rather than throw them away. It makes us feel like an orphan when we read of the imposing stacks of greetings that are received by other fellows who write for the newspapers. They must be quite popular.

It is the same way about letters. But when we read of the number of letters that are received by other fellows about the things they write, we do not feel envious. We just feel sad. We feel sad that we are not similarly favored because our commercial instinct would enable us to make good use of those letters.

Only the other way we noted a reference by a newspaper columnist to the "hundreds" of letters he has received on some one topic. Brethern and sistern, if ever we got hundreds of letters or one topic in this column we would ask the boss for a raise so quick it would make his head swim and probably ours, too, when he brought his trigger mind to bear on the business of refusal. But let us get back to Mr. Nugent and his crack about our transparence.

Our letter was from Mr. Butch Tower, the Broadway betting commissioner, who breathed such beloseness that we hurriedly sent him a message to stay his hand against Mr. Nugent until he consulted with us.

The post card was from Mr. Society Kid Hogan, of Chicago, and pasted on it was a clipping of Mr. Nugent's quite pleasant review of the movie in which the crack occured, with the penciled query:

"Does he mean like the bottom of a beer glass?"

We judge that is about what Mr. Nugent meant. He meant that he could see plumb through us and perhaps beyond. That is quite all right with us now, though in another day we would have viewed it as covert threat, like saying "all is discovered," and would have been wondering how we could get the guy straightened out. In another day it would have been most disquieting to us to have a Mr. Nugent around.

In those days we dwelt in the opaqueness of a devil fish. We wore cuffs and moustache to deceive 'em. We do not think Mr. Nugent could have seen through us then, even with an X-ray.

Now that our life is of contrived pellucidity, we accept his statement as rather flattering. In truth, we would feel that we had gone to a lot of pains for nothing did an eye as discerning as that of Mr. Nugent fail to see through us. We think it is better to be transparent than turbid. Do not do anything to Mr. Nugent, boys, he is a nice fellow.

Mr. Nugent also remarked in his pleasant review that we are an expert at hokum. We take that as a compliment, too. Hokum is strictly our leather. If we have succeeded at it to such an extent as to win the encomiums of a critic of the high calibre of Mr. Nugent, we cannot be other than pleased. If our readers do not know what hokum means, let us explain that it is something that sometimes appears in Mr. Nugent's own Times, only there they call it editorials.

It could be, of course, that what Mr. Nugent meant by transparent was that he saw in our limpidity a certain phoniness, but even that is all right with us. In the course of a rather lengthy existence, we have learned that most everybody has touches of phoniness, inadvertently, or on purpose. Most of us are guilty of phoniness in some form or another every day we live, if it is only in the phoniness of an inquiry about the health of some geezer we secretly hope is a goner.

There is even a little phoniness, which we will bet the nimble Mr. Nugent spots at once, in this column in its not too subtle design to make the reader reflect, gosh that guy is candid. However, we really do hope and trust that in peering through our transparence, the piercing orb of Mr. Nugent took due note of the genuine feeling of gratitude that we hold for all the New York film critics for their kindly forbearance toward our movie efforts, past and present, and there is no hokum in this statement, either.

David Niven Plans To Wed War Nurse

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10 (AP) — David Niven's former employers disclosed today the young film actor's engagement to Ursula Kenyon Slaney, British war nurse.

Representatives of Samuel Goldwyn studio were unable to learn whether Niven, who returned to England for war service recently, planned to resume his motion picture career.

N. E. REPERTORY CO. GIVES WILLIAM SAROYAN PLAY

William Saroyan's "My Heart's in the Highlands," which Broadway discovered to be the season's most interesting theatrical experiment last spring, is to be given its initial Boston presentation by the New England Repertory company.

It is to be given the week of the 30th at Peabody Playhouse on Charles st.

Just an hour and a half long, it really isn't a play—this rather vague story of a "great unknown poet," his young son, and an old Shakespearean actor who blows a golden trumpet.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Just had a chance to read the flood of letters that came to me about the New York critics awards—and what a lot of excitement! One of the most interesting comes from Elizabeth Santoro (Mrs. Al Santoro)—and remember these are her opinions, not mine:

"Jimmy Stewart does not deserve the award, fine as he was in 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington' because he played a role that was tailor-made. Jimmy is an acting stylist. Ditto Jean Arthur. Ditto Bette Davis. Contrast these players who play themselves in every role with a characterization such as Robert Donat turned in with 'Goodbye Mr. Chips.' Paul Muni is another great actor who characterizes. I am afraid the New York critics have confused great personalities with great artists."

THE NORTHWEST MOUNTED, traditionally tracking down their man, never had more trouble than Cecil B De Mille in getting his hero for "Northwest Mounted Police." But contracts will be inked for George Brent to be borrowed from Warners to play Sergeant Jim Blake opposite Madeleine Carroll in C. B.'s Canadian opus. George's selection ends a man hunt for which a half dozen top stars had been named, including Fredric March. Speaking of George, he was delighted today to receive a letter from the real 'Wild Bill" Donovan (the role he played in the "Fighting 69th") saying how much he liked the way he was portrayed on the screen.

New Film for the Dick Powells

The happily married Dick Powells are to be co-starred in Paramount's forthcoming "I Want a Divorce," an original scenario by Adela Rogers St. Johns, written around the title which the studio bought from the radio show of the same name . . . The film will mark Powell's return to the screen after a year's absence and will go before the cameras late this spring.

The John Barrymore vehicle, "My Dear Children," which closed Saturday night in Chicago after a 33-week run, grossed $17,242.65 last week. Only one performance—Tuesday night—was not sold out during Mr. Barrymore's final week there.

"On The Line," the musical which is to bring Al Jolson back to the footlights, is headed this way for a May premiere . . . It is the story of a band leader who leaves the profession at the height of his career and seeks refuge in a foreign country.

Following Sonja Henie's latest starring picture, "Everything Happens at Night," into the Paramount and Fenway theaters will be "A Child Is Born" . . . It is based on the author's actual experience in a maternity hospital.

"Grapes of Wrath," for which Twentieth Century-Fox paid $70,000 for the film rights, will be unreeling on the Met screen within a couple of months . . . This is nearly a record price for a book and was the tops for last year . . . Another John Steinbeck book, "Of Mice and Men," which was later dramatized and produced by Sam Harris, is soon to be released by United Artists . . . It is a Hal Roach production.

Variety reports that the highest price ever paid for film rights to a book or play is the approximately $2,000,000 paid by Metro for "Ben Hur" . . . It was collected by Klaw and Erlanger, legitimate producers, and Vincent Astor, who bought the property from General Lew Wallace, its author.

Second biggest price, approximately $1,250,000, was for "Birth of a Nation," adapted from "The Clansman," by Thomas Dixon . . . The picture, made by D. W. Griffith and Harry Aitken, and managed by J. J. McCarthy, cost only $110,000 to produce, and netted $4,000,000 as a road show and $1,000,000 in general release.

'NINOTCHKA' HAS BOSTON OPENING AT MET TOMORROW

Garbo Success In Comedy Role

In Metro's "Ninotchka," which opens Thursday on the Metropolitan screen, Melvin Douglas teaches Greta Garbo to laugh and from then on she is second to none of Hollywood's top-drawer comediennes.

It is said she has always wanted to play sophisticated comedy and in this, her first venture into it, she is said to be one of the screen's wittiest lovelies.

And this new Garbo not only laughs, she sings. Of her voice, Sound Engineer Conrad Kahn has this to say:

"Garbo is a 'mezzochromatic,' meaning that inside from a medium deep voice, her vocal cords create a secondary vibration or series of overtones which add color. Her voice is like a harmonic on a violin string in which two separate vibrations blend into a single note."

The Swedish star plays a stern Soviet commissar sent to Paris by the Russian government to sell a noblewoman's confiscated jewels. Since the noblewoman is none other than temperamental Ina Claire, it is a foregone conclusion that there is a fight—a court fight.

A French count, portrayed by Douglas, is on Miss Claire's side—that is, he is until he meets up with the great Garbo.

Supporting players are Bela Lugosi, Sig Rumann, Richard Carle and Gregory Gaye, Ernest Lubitsch directed.

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare," the second feature, is another absorbing chapter in the Doctor Kildare series with Lew Ayres in the name role and Lionel Barrymore again playing his caustic, brilliant sponsor, Doctor Gillespie. It is an MGM production, directed by Harold Bucquet.

'Three Sailors' Top RKO Bill

The Three Sailors, musical comedy and film favorites, are the stars of the RKO Boston Theater's new stage revue, opening tomorrow.

Before Continental stages went blackout and merriment became an exclusively American commodity, these zanies were the talk of European variety houses.

Assisting artists on the program will be Gloria Blake, youthful vocalist; the Phil Farrell Revue, a rhythmic dance divertissement entitled "Rhythm at Its Best," Reynolds and White in a novelty musical offering "A Manhattan Night Mare" and the Vespers modern gymnasts.

On the screen will be the first-run attractions, "Cafe Hostess," with Preston Foster and Ann Dvorak, and "South of the Border," starring Hollywood's first cowboy, Gene Autry, in the dramatization of the best-selling song of the same name.

'Mohawk Drums' At Trans-Lux

Starting Friday the Trans-Lux Theater will present as their feature attraction Darryl F. Zanuck's Technicolor thriller, "Drums Along the Mohawk," directed by John Ford.

Action is not the only highlight in "Drums Along the Mohawk." Starred in the film are Claudette Colbert and Henry Fonda as a pair of young pioneers who settle in the Mohawk Valley and soon find their new home the center of fierce Indian forays. In the midst of the fighting and bloodshed these two brave the wilderness together.

Featured in the cast are Edna May Oliver, Eddie Collins, John Carradine, Doris Bowden, Jessie Ralph, Arthur Shields, Robert Lowery and Roger Imhof.

The co-feature, "Too Busy to Work," stars America's first family, the Joneses.

Kay Kyser's Band Feature at Uptown

Kay Kyser and his band are featured in "That's Right, You're Wrong," opening Friday at the Uptown Theater.

Supporting players include Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Lucille Ball and Roscoe Karns. On the same program will be shown "Tower of London" starring Basil Rathbone, Boris Karloff and Nan Grey.

Try Glycerine In Desserts

By MARTHA LEE

Come meal-planning time, do you sigh for a good new baked dessert? Today we give you some suggestions which call for the use of glycerine. It gives an added smoothness and richness of taste that will verify, to the satisfaction of the entire family, the old adage that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating."

CHOCOLATE PUDDING MADRIGALE

2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
¾ cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 eggs
4 tbsp. glycerine
½ tsp. salt

Melt butter and add flour and blend until smooth. Add cold milk and cook until sauce is thick and smooth. Melt chocolate with 2 tablespoons of the glycerine and add sugar and egg yolks which have been beaten well with remaining glycerine. Stir and cook until smooth. Add cooled chocolate mixture to sauce and let stand until almost cold. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Sift some confectioners sugar into bottom of ungreased casserole and pour pudding mixture. Bake in slow oven until very light and puffy on top (about 45 minutes) and serve immediately with whipped cream or fluffy hard sauce.

The glycerine in this pudding will make it lighter, keep it from falling and make it richer; added to the chocolate, will make it smoother to mix and pour when melted.

FRENCH PUDDING

3 tbsp. shortening
¼ cup brown sugar
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
3 tbsp. glycerine
¼ cup milk
¼ cup strong coffee
1½ cups flour
1 tbsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda
Grated rind of 1 orange
2 tbsp. orange juice

Cream shortening and sugar and add well beaten eggs. Mix molasses, glycerine, milk and coffee. Sift flour, spices, salt and soda together. Add liquid and flour alternately to creamed mixture and beat well. Add orange rind and juice. Bake in greased loaf or muffin pans in oven of 365 deg. F. for about 30 minutes. Serve hot with brown sugar hard sauce or spoonful of ice cream on top.

Glycerine added to molasses in a pudding of this type makes it mix easier, makes the taste of molasses blend more evenly and the pudding richer and more moist.

BROWN SUGAR HARD SAUCE

1-3 cup butter
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
3 tbsp. cream

Cream butter until soft; gradually beat in sugar, then cream and vanilla, beating until fluffy. Pile lightly in serving dish and chill until cold but not hard. Makes about ¾ cup sauce, or enough for 4 to 6 portions.

Confectionery Formals

SPUN SUGAR . . . a cordon bleu chef's idea of a whimsical dessert . . . all the frothy, delectable sugary things you can think of seem to have inspired these midseason formals which have just arrived in a Boston shop, fresh from the tissues.

They're so entrancing when the snow blows, and it's icy underfoot, and you have to carry your gardenias or orchids in the box so the frost won't crumple them before ever you arrive at the big dance of the season. Time was when such frocks were reserved for the lucky cruisers, and you felt obliged to dress in velvets or lames. Now you can blossom right out and make the most of their tender flattery.

Upper left is a candy pink polka dotted with pale blue (exciting in frosting white with cherry red). Velvaray on taffeta, the bodice hung on velvet ribbons, the waist very princesse, with fullness let cleverly into the skirt, and a babyish bolero. $7.95 in sizes 9-15.

All-chiffon has a dreamy quality that we all adore . . . this dainty trifle, upper right, is really heavenly, with tiny lastex shirred waistline and sleeves; white, pink, powder blue, or aqua, sizes 12-20, only $7.95.

Elegant is trapunto-accented satin, making the bolero jacket and the diamond-shaped ballerina girdle of a fascinating net frock in pale blue or the softest blush pink we've ever seen; sizes 12-16, $16.95.

You Can Be Beautiful

New Manicure Improvement

By ARLINE GOULD

PERHAPS you've been driven somewhat frantic by manicuritis . . . you've judged that the nice shiny coat of polish just put on with great care was suitably dry, and then found out when it smeared and bunched that your time-judgment wasn't quite right . . . and the whole job had to be done over again!

In this world of temper-saving devices, it's a wonder no one ever thought of some trick "polish shields" before . . . but here they are, ready to help keep that shining surface intact, while you gaily go about as usual, without that helpless interim when you don't even dare push a door button.

These are ten little shields, all ready to be affixed, and they may be used over and over again. The set is a dollar, but they're practically indestructible so you'll save the value many times.

Did you know that if you give your polish an even chance to set and dry as thoroughly as it can, it will last that much longer? Be sure not to plunge your hands into hot water soon after it's been applied. Our favorite trick is to save the nail-lacquering for the very last task before bedtime. After the shower, the hair brushing and face fixing for the night is over, take the time to apply polish and let it set before you pull the covers up. You can read the latest mystery thriller, with the polish shields protecting your nails from cigarette-lighting and page-turning. And you'll be surprised how much longer the manicure lasts.

If you'd like to know about these polish shields, which are in one Boston shop exclusively, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage

Broken Dates

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 15 years old, in high school, and am very fond of a boy of 17 who goes to the same school. He asked one day if he could come over, and I invited him to come any time. He came up that night and we stayed at home, listening to the radio, and he seemed to enjoy being there.

However, he has never come again. He makes dates, but I wait and he doesn't come, and next day in school he makes excuses that he had a lot of homework to do. I never set the dates, but always agree to see him when he asks. I can't understand why he dodges the dates he sets himself, and then gives excuses the next day in school. Can you help me decide this problem?

PUZZLED.

When a young man has homework to do, it's often a question of dodging dates or failing to make his grades, with the terrible disaster of not passing, looming ahead. Complicated with this may be the threats of a stern parent, if he doesn't pass.

One mustn't be too insistent about the rules of decorum in "school days, good old golden rule days."

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

THE girls have to wait four years for a chance to be boss so you can't blame them for taking advantage of the opportunity when it comes . . .

As you know, this year is Leap Year when customarily shy damsels have the traditional right to take the lead away from their boy friends . . . even to the point of popping "that" question if necessary . . .

The wise old sages who plan the calendar did the best they could for the ladies by adding an extra day to their big year . . .

The first enjoyable battle in the female offensive of 1940 will be a party at Eliot Hall, Jamaica Plain Friday evening . . . run by a group of sub debutantes who are going to have everything just the opposite of most conventional dances . . . Their fathers, and not their mothers, will be in the receiving line . . . the boys will be escorted to the dance by girl friends, and instead of the usual stag line the girls will form a "deer" line and do all the cutting in . . .

CHARLOTTE DONALD, Nancy Viele and Amelia Payne, a trio of vivacious Junior Leaguers, arrive at the League for luncheon and a discussion of social service problems in the provisional training course. They are daughters of Mrs. Gordon Donald of Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Dorr Viele of Cambridge and the Thomas H. Paynes of Cambridge, respectively.

Sub debs Virginia Marston, Anne Williams, Christina Baker, Isabel Foster and Barsha Powers are on the committee in charge . . . and the girls chosen to usher (in place of the usual corps of Harvard freshmen) are Janet Harwood, Yvette Laneres, Barbara Higginson, Nancy Stodder, Margaret Waite, Susan C. Simonds, Lilian Boit, Lydia Gifford, and Alice Hurd . .

Proud fathers serving as patrons will include Hatherly Foster, Stephen W. Gifford, G. Newell Hurd, Walter Marston, Ben Ames Williams, Allan E. Waite, Leland Powers and Clement K. Stodder.

Good Manners

Consideration for Hostess

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"The idea of her asking me to her dinner at the last minute. Why, I wouldn't think of accepting.. Why didn't she invite me in the first place?"

Only a socially narrow-minded person takes this resentful attitude about an 11th-hour invitation. An understanding person, a friend who really is a friend, has a sensible and gracious point of view about this kind of invitation. Instead of taking it as a slight, he depend on your co-operation.

Naturally, you will not be invited to every dinner a hostess plans to give . . . you houldn't expect to be. Also, your hostess wouldn't dream of asking you to "fill in" if she doesn't know you very well and if she doesn't think that you are such a graciously understanding friend that she can depend on your co-operation.

You can realize that sometime you may be giving a dinner and that you may at the last minute find yourself faced with the unfortunate fact that one of your guests suddenly is laid low with tonsilitis, and there's that vacant place at table to be filled.

So you, like the good friend and the good sport that you are, understand when the hostess telephones her plea to you to "be a good friend and help me out." If it is humanly possible for you to accept, you say an immediate and enthusiastic, "Of course I will, Mary, and I'd love to come. You were very kind to think of me. I'll dash right into my clothes, and be right there."

You've shown yourself an agreeable and co-operative person and friend. You've made your hostess feel that she has paid you a great compliment . . . and that's just what she did do.

Be Agreeable

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"Be pretty if you can; be witty if you must; but be agreeable if it kills you."

All of us treasure, in our hearts and memories, wise words of advice from our mothers The words I have quoted above are the counsel that Elsie de Wolfe (now Lady Mendl) cherishes from her mother, obviously a woman of nimble wit and common sense

Only a woman who knew the social world could have said these words, for they have the wit of which she speaks and it has worldly wisdom.

P. S. It's easy to memorize!

She Is Confused

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please let me know what I should have done in this case. Recently I entertained 10 friends at a Hostess House. Just before the dessert was brought in, the waitress brought in a small glass bowl with two small flowers floating in the water and set it to my right. None else was given one. What was it for?

HOSTESS.

The small glass dish with the two flowers floating in the water was undoubtedly a finger bowl. But I can't imagine why you were the only one to be given a finger bowl. The only explanation I can think of is that the waitress wasn't familiar with the finger-bowl service and got confused.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

STOP Scratching Relieve Itch Fast or Money Back

Modern Glamour Girls

By George Clarke

"Newspapers are builders of glamour . . ."

WOMEN don't have to be in the public eye to be glamorous . . . but it helps.

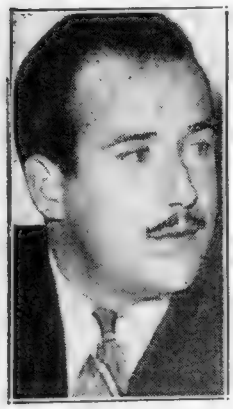
A woman can be glamorous in her home, and for the sole edification of one man, her husband. She can be glamorous to a small, select circles of friends . . . or she can be glamorous in the eyes of all the world.

Once a woman has attracted the attention of the world, the degree of glamour she achieves is exactly measurable by the stir she causes in public places. Such a one is greeted upon entering a room by a buzz of suppressed exclamations, by a rustle of comment. So it is when she walks down a theater aisle late. Glamour girls generally manage to be late at theaters or when she enters a nightclub.

News that a glamour girl is going to be at a given place at a given time is sometimes the signal for a public demonstration of major proportions.

So it was with Greta Garbo a few years ago in New York, when she tried to hide herself behind dark glasses.

Crowds followed her wherever she went. Her room at the St. Moritz was constantly besieged. She couldn't go anywhere without embarrassment . . . and that's glamour.



HUGH PICKERING
Merry Fahrney's First

Nowadays she doesn't wear dark glasses, goes everywhere, and has even learned how to laugh . . . so people don't bother me so much. Not because she has lost any of her glamour, it's just that most of the mystery has been dispelled.

Classic example of one who came to glamour by the constant attention of the newspapers, brought about by her own madcap pranks, is Merry Fahrney, heiress to $4,000,000 of the estate of her grandfather, Peter Fahrney, who laid aside a fortune estimated at $10,000,000 or more from the manufacture and sale of a patented medicine.

She is rich literally because of the aches and pains of thousands upon thousands of devotees of drugstore nostrums.

Her career has been a rainbow streak of brilliant coloring, highlighted by four different husbands, and innumerable pranks and escapades which have kept her consistently in the public eye for the last several years.

Ask almost anyone: "Who is Merry Fahrney?" and the answer will be: "Oh, she's that heiress from Chicago with all the husbands. You know, they call her 'Madcap Merry'"—and indeed almost everyone does!

MERRY comes from a very staid and placid community, one about comparable to Newton, which is Oak Park, Ill., a fashionable suburb draped around the western edge of rough and ready Chicago. It is a community of shaded streets and lovely homes the place where world-famous architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, developed that type of dwelling which has spread all over the country and is known as the bungalow.

Merry, the daughter of Emory Fahrney, was quick to get going following the death of her father. One day, for instance, she was asked to go to the drug store to get medicine for a sick maid. She came home hours later, trailing six police dogs. Someone had sold them to her, and she had forgotten entirely what she had started out to get.

Her parents decided she should travel, to give them a rest, and when they returned from a visit South, they found her back from her cruise and with the house full of guests from the ship. She had invited 'em all over, and why not? It took some persuasion to get them all out of the house.

MERRY FAHRNEY

MERRY GOES 'ROUND WITH LE GRAND GRISWOLD
To the Music of Wagging Tongues in New York

Next she tried a parachute jump and the rope fouled on the wing of the plane. She was high in the air, and dangling, safe at the moment, but facing sure death when the plane was landed. So Aviator Bruno Schustek went up in another plane, lowered himself by a rope, and after two hours work, managed to free her. She floated safely to earth, but he was too exhausted to save himself and plunged six hundred feet to his death.

By this time the press of the country was ready for almost anything, and got it, but quick, when she eloped with Hugh Parker Pickering, who became Husband No. 1. That lasted only long enough for her to have a child, Peter Fahrney, second, who, when he is 21, will inherit about $4,000,000.

Then they were divorced, but are still good friends—so good that they are still frequently seen together.

Her next husband was Frank Van Eizner, and their honeymoon by auto ended in a crash which put them both in the hospital, and killed his brother. That marriage was annulled.

HUSBAND No. 3 was Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Italy. Of this marriage she said: "He can speak no English, and I can speak no Italian—and we don't know enough French between us to have a good quarrel . . . It looks like it will last."

It didn't. Chicago courts gave her an annulment, and she promptly married Count Oleg Cassini, whose grandfather used to be Russian ambassador to the United States. Now it should be understood that under the regime of the czars, princes in Russia were a dime a dozen—the title being comparable approximately to that of "squire" in England. But counts were rare and far between, and ranked high in the Almanach de Gotha, as did barons.

Outranking counts were only dukes and archdukes, the last named being members of the royal family. So the count, according to old standards is some pumpkins.

But there was trouble over her annulment. Some in Chicago said her marriage to the baron was not annulled at all, that she was a biganist. The annulment was finally upheld by the State Supreme Court, however—so, to celebrate, she married her count all over again.

He, incidentally, is a brother of that Count Igor Cassini, the Washington gossip columnist who was tarred and feathered last spring for an alleged slight to an old Washington family. It is still before the courts.

And, also before the courts, is the divorce of Merry and her count . . . and in New York, she has named a Miss Ann Humphries, and he has countered, listing seven men by initials. One set is "H. F. P."

She, in the meantime, is rumbaing around New York with Billy Riviere and Le Grand Griswold, a couple of playboys.

Presently, it seems, she will race her divorce, and then—who knows.

DUNWARD HOWES, editor of the biographical dictionary, "American Women," again chooses the nation's ten outstanding feminine leaders.

DR. BLODGETT

In alphabetical order, they are: Lila Bell Acheson, magazine editor; Dr. Katherine Burr Blodgett, glare-proof glass inventor; Bette Davis, motion picture actress; Anne Hummert, business executive; Elsa Maxwell, champion party giver; Anne O'Hare McCormick, journalist; Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President; Nora Waln, author of "Reaching for the Stars"; Mrs. Elias Compton, mother of Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Margaret Webster, actress and director.

It is an impressive listing of women and accomplishments. Nobody will dispute that.

For one cannot read its historical data without being thankful for free America, where our mothers, wives and sisters are privileged to develop their talents and contribute to the general happiness and welfare.

BETTE DAVIS

But not everybody will agree that the above-named ten are actually THE outstanding women.

They merely happen to enjoy that distinction in Editor Howes' opinion.

Other men will undoubtedly offer other and equally imposing selections.

And, unless we miss our guess, more than one will place at the head of the list the name of an unknown mother who maintained a home in the face of discouraging odds, worked unselfishly for sons and daughters and inspired them to the attainment of self-respecting, law-abiding manhood and womanhood.

DIVORCE RIVALRY between Western States interests New England.

Nevada, still the leader in the business of dissolving marital ties, continues to allow "residents" to sue for their freedom after they have spent six weeks in the State.

Idaho, an enterprising competitor, has enacted an almost identical law.

The only difference is that the person who obtains a divorce can marry immediately in the Reno area, but, in the Sun Valley territory he must wait at least six months.

Other distant States are reported to be considering the writing of equally lenient legislation to attract tourists, particularly those tourists who want release from marriage without too much publicity.

But the competition fails to attract our six States. Our divorce laws have changed little in the past century, and there is little indication that they are likely to change.

In Massachusetts, a man or woman is required to prove that he or she has resided in the Commonwealth for five years before a court will consider a divorce petition.

Other New England States are less severe. Connecticut insists on a minimum of three years' residence; Rhode Island on two years', and Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont on one year's.

We have tolerated a few "Gretna Greens," where elopers could marry quickly and quietly. But they are rapidly disappearing.

"HOW OLD ARE YOU? Talk to me a half-hour and, without looking at your face or noticing the stoop of your shoulders, I'll guess the approximate number of your years."

So boasts a Cambridge woman in an interesting letter addressed to this department.

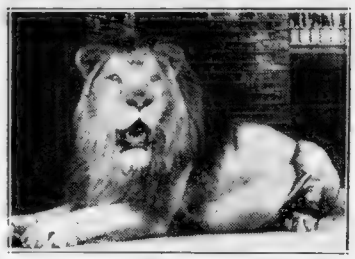
We suspect that our reader friend will base her decision on the new words and phrases we use in conversation.

If, in discussing the current war abroad, we say "going west," "over the top," "brass hat" or AWOL, she will conclude that we were reading newspapers during the 1917 conflict.

If we talk of "all wool and a yard wide," "that's jake with me," "go peddle your fish" or "work yourself into a lather," she will know that we are probably in our fifties, for this slang was popular in the Gay Nineties.

But if we mention "oomph," "blackouts," "blessed events," "the little man who wasn't there," or "swellegant" persons and places, she will be sure that we and graduation day are only a few years apart.

It all goes to prove that English, particularly AMERICAN English, is a growing language, filled with pithy phrases and smart sayings.



Leo, Rex

HE needs no crown, no gilded throne . . . no ermine robes or panoply . . . nor yet the trumpet's brazen tone . . . needs to assert his majesty . . . No fawning courtiers, no court fool . . . in cap and bells proclaim his rule.

But Leo, Rex, like kings of old . . . claiming nor needing "divine right" . . . like ancient kings and warriors bold . . . asserts his rule alone by might.

March of Events -:- By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

SPEAKING of I. Q.'s, "Information, Please," "Ask It" and other such pleasant diversions of these days, the American people are, almost to a man, asking the New Deal Administration these questions:

Why are 9,000,000 persons out of work after you have been "spending us into prosperity" to the tune of thirty or forty thousand million of dollars?

Why have we a debt of $43,000,000,000 and still going up to the deadline of $45,000,000,000?

Why is there a growing deficit, although you have tripled taxes on us since your advent in 1933?

Why are billions of dollars frozen in the bank vaults when business is simply itching to spend them?

Information, Please!

MY HEAD is still bloody but unbowed, although a whole carload of saxophones and trapdrums has been hurled at it over the question as to whether jazz is music or just—jazz.

Paul Whiteman, famous jazz-band leader, writes to me in defense of jazz:

"It set the world's toes tapping, its shoulders undulating and blasted out a niche for itself in the adamantine walls of contemporary music."

"Blasted" is right. In fact, to me jazz is just a blasted noise, and it isn't music, because it appeals, according to Mr. Whiteman, only to shoulders and toes.

Mrs. Anna Havel, of North Arlington, N. J., lunges at me with this:

"Jazz music is not degrading,

MAESTRO PAUL WHITEMAN DEFENDS JAZZ MUSIC
"It Set the World's Toes Tapping, Its Shoulders Undulating"

not any more so than a picture of a nude person."

Nudity in itself is not indecent, but there is such a thing as indecent public exposure." Well, that's what jazz is (to me)—indecent public exposure.

Music, next to genuine human love, is the greatest gift from on high. Music is the language of the angels—jazz the gibberish of insane demons.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON, California's famous novelist and essayist, jumps into the everlasting Shakespeare-Bacon controversy with this letter to "March of Events":

"I suppose the mystery never will be solved of how an uneducated man—Shakespeare—who is said to have been unable to write anything but his name, untravelled, unable to read, could have written plays that apart from the immense brain power and imagination displayed showed a knowledge of about everything on earth. However, genius knows no laws. In spite of a good many 'proofs' that look reasonable enough, he may have written the plays and poems. But if ever it is really proved they were written by some highly endowed and accomplished man, I hope it will not be Bacon. Few have equalled him in meanness and perfidy, and I'd hate to see him crowned even at this late day."

There is not an iota of proof that Shakespeare could not read or write or never travelled. We know hardly anything about his life—except that all his contemporaries acclaimed him a great playwright and that no one ever even questioned the authenticity of the plays until nearly 160 years after he was dead.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—I hated to see Anna and John leave. It made the family seem very small at supper last night. I was all alone at breakfast this morning, so I went up to get my youngest grandson to keep me company, but even he seemed to sense that something was wrong, for he wouldn't stay by himself on the floor, but wanted to be held all the time.

However, today at lunch Sistie and Buz came back. Now they are out enjoying the snow back of the White House and they will give that added touch of family which their small brother missed this morning.

When they all go at the end of this week, we shall indeed be bereft. Franklin, Jr., and Ethel will also be leaving us soon with their little boy, and the old house will return to dignified silence until some more children come to wake it up.

AT LUNCH, I discovered that Mr. Dale Carnegie is a Lincoln enthusiast, so I showed him all I could of interest about Lincoln in the White House. I find that all the people who really have studied that period of our history are much interested in the new portrait which hangs in the State Dining Room.

MME. LOTTE LEHMANN
Wins First Lady's Applause

They are all struck by the thoughtful, contemplative expression and the humorous look about the mouth. It was that sense of humor which kept Lincoln going, because under the gaunt and rough exterior there was such a very soft heart.

A lovely concert Monday morning in Mrs. Townsend's series, at which Mr. Melchior and Madame Lotte Lehmann sang. It was also for their public places.

most the biggest audience I have ever seen at these concerts and the artists well deserved the prolonged applause.

I HAVE a letter written me on an airplane by a lady who is on her way to California. She found in Washington, D. C.: "Dirty newspapers and crumpled bags blowing along the streets and lodged in corners less than two blocks from the Supreme Court Building."

She feels we should "provide containers of interesting design and that organizations, citizens, housewives and school children will then become sidewalk conscious and will cooperate in keeping their city beautiful."

"I cringe," says she, "when I think how this must impress representatives from other beautiful cities of the world where good civic housekeeping is required."

I wish we might be the cleanest most orderly city in the world. On the whole, I thought Washington did fairly well. It certainly compares well with London, or Paris or Rome. Perhaps cities in Germany and Holland are a little more "shiny," but that is because generations have been taught a sense of responsibility

PAGING A 1940 O. HENRY! Right here in Boston has occurred an incident that has the elements of the strangest story of the year in spite of the fact that only ten pages have been flipped off the calendar so far . . . Governor Saltonstall and one or two of his official intimates know the particulars, but no one is talking . . . The yarn unfortunately has a macabre quality which forbids endowing it with the light or humorous touch . . . It's a three-sentence story, which makes it the better . . . Here it is . . . The State House has been seeking the trustee of a state mental hospital in order to follow up a request for his resignation with another query as to why he didn't answer the communication . . . Where do you suppose he was finally found? . . . In another mental hospital in the State—as a patient. (Exclusive!)

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The value to a community of an alert and industrious citizen such as Dr. William F. Maguire may be judged partially by the array of athletic talent secured for a social event tonight in the modest metropolis of Randolph . . . The event is the annual Athletic Night of St. Mary's parish, at the church hall . . . Coaches Frank Leahy, Pat Hanley, Cleo O'Donnell and Tuss McLaughry; Baseballers Vernon Lefty Gomez, Elbie Fletcher, Hugh Mulcahy and Jack Onslow; Past and Present Glove Tossers Jack Sharkey, Lou Brouillard, Tony Shucco, George Martin, Abe Denver, Dick Honeyboy Finnegan and Johnny Skhor; Olympics Coach Harrington, Ellison Tarzan Brown, Drum Majorette Champion Dot Slamin, Sports Writers Jack Conway and Dave Egan have been mustered for the attendance roll, and Joe Rubin will be the master of ceremonies (with this special billing: "By popular demand for a return engagement")

NOW RANDOLPH WOULD be a sizeable gallop from the homes of most of the guests even for Tarzan Brown . . . Of course, Dr. Maguire had some assistance in arranging the program, but his fellow-workers are willing to give him most of the credit . . . We call attention to the affair because the lineup is indeed a star-studded list and bespeaks a great deal of enthusiasm and hard work on the part of somebody . . . But the point of it is that the Randolph doctor has had one ambition for years . . .

FOUR SUCCESSIVE GOVERNORS have been appealed to by Maguire friends to place him on the boxing commission, or to name him commissioner . . . The doctor is modest, honest, loyal, and a hustler . . . Among his sponsors have been some of the most sincere friends of boxing in the State . . . But nothing happens . . . Another commissioner is appointed, and it's never Dr. Maguire . . . The same energy shown in arranging an Athletic Night in the town of Randolph, if it were displayed in behalf of boxing by a man in the post of commissioner might do the wallowing boxing racket a deal of good . . . These paragraphs have no political design, as there is no vacancy in the post and the Doc is a Democrat and wouldn't have a chance under a Republican administration . . . Nor are they intended as a knock to the present boxing commissioner. (We don't even know his name).

POWELL'S NEW BRIDE NOT 'STAGE WIFE'

By Louella O. Parsons

William Powell

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Exhibitors sensing big "box-office" in a co-starring appearance of Bill Powell and the bride, Diana Lewis, and who wired Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to that effect, are going to be disappointed. Curious though the public may be about the new Mrs. Powell there's not a chance she'll be in Bill's next, "I Love You Again." The best reason is that Bill's screen bride, and favorite co-star, Myrna Loy, is again set to appear with him and there will be no last minute change of plans even though the real Mrs. P. is under contract

"I Love You Again" is the hilarious farce written by Octavus Roy Cohen which ran in a national magazine. It's about a sophisticated gentleman stricken with amnesia right after his marriage Larry Weingarten will produce

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The Chicago critics were kind to Constance Bennett but pretty hard on the old-fashioned Noel Coward play, "Easy Virtue" which is of the vintage of 1926. Ashton Stevens thought it was a pity that Dick Bennett's girl didn't get a better play: one of the pleasant things of this trip is seeing old friends I haven't seen in years The luncheon given me by the Headliners Club brought out many familiar faces Pat Daugherty, Babe Meigs, Sidney Abel (who used to be sales head for Fox), Bill Hollander, Clifford Webb, Ella Logan, pretty Ann Miller and Helen Flint among those who took bows; Joan Crawford gets back in Hollywood Friday; Charles Boyer startling the Hollywood natives wearing burnsides getting ready for his role in "All This and Heaven Too"; M-G-M isn't crazy about the idea but Spencer Tracy has taken up polo again; Prince and Princess Vassell in Los Angeles conferring with the heads of the Finnish relief committee for the benefit to be staged at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco; Walter Hagen stagging it at the House of Murphy; well, two more days and we'll be headed for home.

RUTH HUSSEY is one young lady coming along slowly but surely. She gets the second most important feminine role to Greer Garson as Charlotte in "Susan and God" and I happen to know several important "names" were tested for this part. In spite of the fact there's been little publicity about this M-G-M newcomer she's rated big roles in "Northwest Passage," "Another Thin Man" and several of the Hardy films. Fredric March and Greer Garson are the co-stars of "Susan and God" but I'd advise you to keep an eye on Ruth's career in 1940.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE MOMENT I saw Clifford I knew he was the man I wanted. He was a bachelor—a partner in the law firm which I had consulted on a small matter.

Some 10 years before he had been badly used by a woman who had been nothing more than a gold-digger; since then no one had been able to pierce the armor of hatred which he now bore toward all women.

One morning he telephoned me, asking if he could see me. As soon as he arrived at my apartment, he began abruptly, "Miss Moore, you may have guessed that I am not interested in marriage as such. But if I die without heirs, the family name will die with me,

"I HAVE GIVEN some thought to the problem, and now I come to you for a solution." Then he went on to make the most astounding proposal I had ever heard. "I want a son. I have looked up your family and reputation. You are intelligent, sensible, charming—a child of yours would have a good inheritance of looks, health, and mentality. If you will marry me, have a son, then divorce me and leave the child with me with no claims whatever on him, I will settle fifty thousand dollars on you."

I could only gasp with horror at such a suggestion. The man was mad! Then I remembered the stories I had heard of the heartless way in which this man had been treated, and I felt only a profound pity and love for him.

So we were married. Clifford was always kind, but aloof. The only time he showed joy was when I told him his hopes of a child were to be realized. But now I began to realize what a horrible thing I had done; I had bargained away my child in a gamble for this man's affection.

WHEN I FIRST looked into my son's wizened little red face—beautiful to me—I knew it was impossible to give him up.

The first morning after I came home from the hospital, and as soon as Clifford had left for the office, I began hurriedly packing. In the midst of the confusion I looked up to see Clifford standing in the doorway.

He led me to a chair, and said tenderly, "Don't leave me. I've been a fool. The baby needs you, but not any more than I do. I've discovered something wonderful—I love you!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

BEWARE of a marriage that will make things comfortable for you.

Beware of a mate whom you can patronize—who will let you "take things easy"—who will never criticize you or make you feel like 30 cents.

Nothing will make a bum of you quicker than such a marriage.

Nothing will make a cad or a coward of you quicker than such a mate.

Love is divine—if it's the right kind of love. But it is utterly demoralizing if it's the wrong kind of love. And unfortunately most of us are ignorant about the "right" and "wrong" kinds of love. But there's a test—

Any love that makes you live more bravely, honestly and energetically is the right kind of love.

Any love that helps you to slide out from under life is the wrong kind of love.

LIFE is the important thing, not love. You need growth far more than you need romance. Love is only important as it ministers to life—as it makes a finer man or woman of you. If it doesn't do that, love's a failure, no matter how "happy" it makes you.

That is why many of the wisest men have condemned marriage. They felt that it complicated life too much—that it endangered growth. They saw clearly that marriage, which most of us regard so blithely, is really the gravest risk a character can take. For if you stay single the world will always take it out of you if you make a fool of yourself.

But if you're married you nearly always get petted up at home. Also it takes so little effort to be a success in marriage. Just flatter the old man or bring the old girl a bunch of flowers, and you're a prize winner as a Missis or a Mister. But it takes much, much more than that to qualify as a regular human.

WHY HAVE MEN and women turned against a "faithful, loving, partner, who never did an unkind thing to them?" That's why.

There is something deadly and damning about such a companionship. Something unnatural.

No human being has a right to spend years with another human being and never do an unkind thing to him or her.

No two human beings can be real partners and not stir each other up—not criticize and clash in the course of their mutual progress.

A PIG FOR CHRISTMAS

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

By GEORGE DIXON

MISS MARION PARKLEIGH, a vision so lovely that Mr. Clifford Gordon ached to supply tangible confirmation, shook her head as if to clear it. She stared around her holly and mistletoe-decked apartment on the fifteenth floor of the every expensive Longacre Arms with the strained look of one fighting for control.

Finally her eyes came back to young Mr. Gordon, and they fairly snapped. Then she glared at the pig.

The Cast of Characters in "A Pig for Christmas"

CLIFF, so soft-hearted he just can't bear the thought of butchering a pig.
MARION, whose mind is on a night club—not pigs.

"A pig!" she choked. The effort appeared to have overtaxed her powers of speech and for a moment there was silence. Mr. Gordon gazed pleadingly

Her voice, when she finally regained it, seemed to drip all the distilled sarcasm of the centuries.

"Just what I wanted for Christmas," she cooed—a coo charged with menace. "However in the world did you guess?"

"Aw, Honey—" began Cliff.

"Most men," she went on, "would give a girl something foolish, like perfume or initialed handkerchiefs. But never you. You're so practical. You bring me a pig. Just my size, too."

"But, Honey," protested Cliff, "I've been trying to tell you. If you'd only listen a minute I didn't buy him for you. I only wanted to save his life. After all, it's Christmas Eve, and when the bartender said—"

"I was fairly certain a bartender figured in this," snapped Marion. She looked lovelier than ever, Cliff decided, even though her expression ran more to assault and battery than love.

"I only dropped in for one—Well, maybe two—because I knew you wouldn't be ready so soon," explained Cliff. "And the bartender showed me this sucking pig."

"Suckling pig," corrected Marion, primly.

"Well, that's what the bartender called him. Anyway, he said they were going to kill him and serve him New Year's Eve to the regular customers."

PIGS IN PENTHOUSE!

"Who—the bartender?"

"No, the—you know what I meant. Well, I took a look at the little thing, as I told you, and he looked at me so—well, I just couldn't stand it. I couldn't bear to think of him being murdered. So I bought him."

"And brought him to me."

"No, I was going to—Oh, hell. I don't know what I was going to do. It seemed like the thing to do at the time. Maybe it doesn't seem so bright now. But look at him—you wouldn't want to see him murdered, would you?"

Once again Marion seemed to have difficulty finding voice. At last she spoke—in a strangled sort of way.

"Maybe you don't recall," she said darkly, "but we were to go to the Moonbeam Club, and—as you no doubt have become aware—I have dressed down to practically nothing for the occasion. Were you thinking of putting white tie and tails on the beast and taking him along, or did you imagine you could leave him here? Of course this is only a dump, and most of the tenants—including the Van der Stiles in the penthouse — keep pigs—"

Cliff groaned. "All right," he said, "I'll get rid of him. I'll take him back. I suppose you want me to do it now."

Marion tried to count 10 before replying, but couldn't make it.

"No," she cried. "I want to keep him here until he is old enough to vote. Wait a minute," as Cliff rose. "I think maybe it'd be better if I went with you You might come back with a two-toed sloth or a herd of buffalo."

Cliff looked so woebegone that by the time they reached the elevator she partially relented. She kissed him.

"You're really pretty sweet," she said, "but you know we can't leave a pig in my apartment. Better hide it under your overcoat. There might be others in the elevator."

There were—two ermined ladies with pompous-looking escorts. One of the women was adjusting her coiffure. Her descending elbow jabbed Cliff in the middle of the pig.

The pig squealed, so did the lady. The latter recoiled, and just then the pig thrust out its snout and grunted at her. Cliff tried to still her shudders with an apology, explaining inanely: "I guess he just wanted some air."

Marion arose to the occasion. "Don't be alarmed," she said brightly, "he's just taking him to a poor pork packer for Christmas."

Outside Cliff placed the pig on the ground and held him by the rope supplied by the bartender. A taxi drew up, but after Marion climbed in, the hackie saw the pig. He thrust Cliff back with a large paw

"Nothing stirring," he snarled. "You ain't taking no pigs in my cab."

"But listen," pleaded Cliff, "we don't want to go very far—"

"You won't," said the cabman. "Not in my hack, anyway." Cliff started to say something more, but Marion climbed out.

"Don't argue with him, darling," she said. 'I wouldn't take our nice pig in his filthy cab. They've already got one in it. I just saw its picture." The driver swore and let in the clutch.

PIG-STROLLING

"We'll walk," said Marion, "although I wish I hadn't worn these high heels. I never expected to go pig-strolling."

The bar was a good ten blocks away. They suffered plenty of passing comment en route, including the jibes of a grimy urchin on Lexington ave. near 35th who yelled: "Hey, where are the other two little pigs?"

They found their bartender polishing glasses, holding them up and blowing in them. Cliff went straight to the point and asked if the pig was returnable.

"You mean," asked the bartender, "you don't want it. That's a good sucking pig."

"Suckling," said Marion.

"Uh?"

"But listen," pleaded Cliff, "we don't want to go very far."

"Never mind. He wants to give it back. We," as if driving home a point, "can't use it."

The bartender looked genuinely distressed.

"That's a shame," he said. "I wished I'd knowed. It woulda save Joe—that's the boss—a lot of trouble. He had to go out and buy another and it wasn't no easy job. Sucking pigs is scarce. Say," to Cliff, "would you like to look at the new one—?"

Marion grabbed Cliff's arm. "Let's get out of here, quick," she panted, "or we'll have two on our hands."

On the sidewalk, Cliff sought further instructions but Marion seemed completely nonplussed, a novel condition for her. After twice asking "Well, what do we do now?" without reply, he volunteered that he supposed they could give it to "some poor people."

"What poor people?" demanded Marion.

"Oh," said Cliff bitingly, there must be lots. There are 7,000,000 people in this town and there must be a dozen or more who are poor."

"Don't be funny," retorted Marion. "What I meant is how many do you know?"

"Why——"

"You see! We can't just go up to a stranger on the street and say, 'Listen, you poor person, here's a nice pig for Christmas,' we'll wind up in Bellevue psychopathic—," she broke off as a blue uniform approached. Before Cliff could stop her she was saying, in her sweetest tones, "Oh, officer, we want to give this pig to a poor family. Could you tell us where the poor people live?"

The cop had a series of dates for quick ones and Christmas handouts and didn't want any distractions. He gave Marion a searching look.

"You're sure that's what you want to do, is it lady?" he asked. "You ain't mistaken this for Halloween?" Marion assured him that all she wanted to be was a pig-bearing angel of mercy, whereupon the cop gave directions. "Go east a couple of blocks," he said, "and then turn down a few more. You'll find poor people all right—nothing else but. They could use that pig. Merry Christmas!"

The block into which they finally turned was pretty dingy. They selected the worst-looking tenement and knocked on the first door beyond the entrance.

"Pardon me," said Cliff, lifting his hat, as a woman peered out, "but we have a pig here ——"

"We don't want any," growled the woman, and slammed the door. They tried half a dozen more with the same result, and were about to try another tenement when a man lurched into the darkened hallway. Out of one bleary eye he spotted the pig. He leaned over to pat it.

"Nice puppy," he rumbled. "Good ole Towzer. I had a dog once!——" he broke off. "A pig!" he shrieked. "I see a pig!"

Doors flew open, erupting tenants. And at this point the pig broke loose. He went scampering and squealing up the stairs, caroming off the leg of a fat woman who promptly howled that she'd been bitten and would somebody call an ambulance.

The bedlam, of course, brought a policeman. He demanded in loud, official tones to know what was going on. Cliff endeavored to enlighten him, but was interrupted by the woman from the ground floor front who shouted: "He was trying to sell pigs, officer. He's a dressed up pig peddler." Others chimed in with similar accusations. The cop, taking in Marion with appreciative eye, looked dubious.

"You got a license to peddle pigs?" he demanded of Cliff. Marion came up with another bit of helpfulness. "No, Officer," she said, "he's not really in the business. It's just a sort of hobby with him." Cliff could have killed her.

He was still striving, with little success, to explain, when the grimiest and most truculent-looking man Marion had ever seen, came down the stairs dragging the pig. When he saw Cliff and Marion he scowled blackly.

SANTA CLAUS!

"I suppose this is your pig?" he asked Cliff. Cliff nodded. He was beyond speech.

"You," the man snarled. "You and your pets. Care more for animals than for humans. Here's your pet of a pig," he glowered at Marion. "You take it home

Before Marion could think up a retort, the man went on: "It's a shame, that's what it is. Lots of poor people could use this pig for Christmas—Hey, take your hands offen me or I'll bust you!"

"What did you say? gasped Cliff. "Say it again."

"I said I'd bust you."

"No—about the pig. Did you say you could use it? Listen, pally, he's yours."

The man looked incredulous and voiced his doubts. Cliff assured him he had now acquired title to a pig in fee simple. The truculence slowly subsided from the fellow's face and he managed what passed for a smile.

"Well — thanks, Mister," he said, Then, looking around, he added: "And all the folks here are invited up to my place for a chunk of him tomorrow, Merry Christmas, Mister—and you, too, lady!"

"Merry Christmas!" cried Cliff and Marion — and took it on the run. At the corner they piled into a parked taxi. "Moonbeam Club!" commanded Cliff, and took Marion in his arms. Then Cliff asked 'Do you know who that was, Darling?"

"You mean the man we gave the pig to? That's easy. That was Santa Claus."

"No, said Cliff. "That was Tiny Tim."

Business Watches
Political Trends

What with a barrage of foreign war propaganda, on the one hand, and prospective domestic political debate in a presidential year, on the other, the American, who desires to be prudent, will need a psychological gas mask in 1940.

THE ECONOMIC WAYFARER, who seeks objectively to read the signposts at the cross roads, will be confused by the deliberate attempt of special pleaders to color events.

On the domestic side, political campaigning will doubtless attempt to mix up cause and effect. For example, if war demand and drought should operate further to raise agricultural prices and thus reduce the price gaps between agriculture and industry which have been a major maladjustment of the depression, then it is important that this development be correctly appraised.

IN THE EVENT of further re-employment resulting from such improved balance in the internal economy of the nation, the political "ins" will doubtless seek to make capital of it, characterizing the expansion in employment and business volume as due to irrelevant legislative reforms. These reforms in fact may have had no bearing on the improving business situation or may in fact even have proved definitely harmful.

MY POINT is that this is a year which calls for careful, expert, and nonpartisan diagnosis of the causes behind the flow of events. It will be dangerous for thoughtful citizens to permit themselves to be lulled to sleep by unsound, though plausible, generalizations by the phrasemakers.

This statement is made in a nonpartisan spirit by an observer who believes that both parties have offended in muddying the capacity of the citizen to make his own life financial plans.

For example, it is difficult to measure the full extent of citizen losses resulting late in 1929, in 1930, and thereafter, from former President Hoover's tendency to argue away the legitimacy of the developing depression. Many believed him when he said that prosperity was just around the corner, and backed such belief with savings, much of which was lost

NOT ONLY DID INDIVIDUALS lose in the process, but numerous corporations, especially in the railroad and public utility field, put themselves on a limb by following Mr. Hoover's advice to keep up normal capital expenditures in 1930.

I believe that Mr. Hoover's advice was sincerely given, and of course it would have been brilliant if it had worked. But since the procedure did not deal with the causes of the depression, namely the existing maladjustments, it merely weakened corporations which stuck out their necks and made frozen capital improvements on borrowed funds—in some cases on bank loans. Moreover, such activity as took place in 1930 was in effect borrowed from the coming years when companies eschewed making normal capital expenditures.

UNLESS THE OPPOSITION to the New Deal begins early to help educate the public as to how the economic body functions, and the importance of balanced income relationships among the various economic groups, such as farmers and factory workers, who employ one another through exchanging products of their year's labor, then there is danger that such further rise in agricultural prices as may possibly be in the offing this year will constitute unanswerable vote getting arguments in favor of the party in power.

IF THE VOTERS are made to feel that such re-employment and business improvement as may be ahead are ascribable to the witchcraft of the brain trusters, then the argument against swapping horses will become dominant.

MEANTIME, the snoozing stock market is sensitive to political prospects at home and abroad. In the domestic field, politicians have camped at the doorstep of business, and as a result economic appraisal and forecasting are impossible without making allowance for political trends and prospects.

SERVEL SALES HIT 21 MILLIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Sales of Servel, Inc., makers of Gas refrigerators, were $21,174,123, according to the company's annual report to stockholders issued today. The net profits, previously reported, were $2,926,265 after all charges and federal tax, equivalent, after provision for dividends on the preferred stock (since redeemed) to $1.61 a share on 1,781,426 shares of common.

The volume of net sales showed a 12.2 per cent increase over the previous year.

WEBSTER & ATLAS EARNINGS RISE

R. B. Cox, president of the Webster & Atlas National Bank, reports net earnings for 1939 were equivalent to $4.20 per share on the capital stock. During the year the bank loaned $26,947,094.

The book value of the stock increased from $81.17 per share in 1938 to $83.37 per share on December 31, 1939

Willkie Elected

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern Corp., was elected to the board of directors of First National Bank of New York, it was announced at the annual stockholders' meeting.

London Bar Silver

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Bar silver 22d, up ¼ penny. (Equivalent 39.90 cents on the dollar basis $4.03.)

Bar gold 168s, unchanged. (Equivalent $33.85.)

Stock Trend Uneven in Dull Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Buyers were choosy in the stock market today and while some leaders were pushed ahead for fractional advances, the action of the list as a whole was uneven

Activity was restrained from the outset. Near noon the steels were under fire to a certain extent, but losses were minor.

Resistant were Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Woolworth, Consolidated Edison, duPont, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Railway and Goodyear

Most of the time on the other side of the fence were U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide and Santa Fe

Foreign marts tended lower. Bonds were steady and commodities were mixed.

About in line with Wall Street expectations was the more than seasonal rise in electric power production for the holiday week ended Jan 6

As power output increased, the sharply cold weather brought about an unusually large drain on fuel oil stocks which dropped 3,325,000 barrels. At the same time, due to the abnormally short foreign demand, gasoline inventories rose by more than a million barrels.

Munch New President of Hood Rubber

NEW YORK, Jan 10—C. Lawrence Munch has been elected president of the Hood Rubber Company, Watertown, Mass it was announced following the company's annual meeting here Mr. Munch formerly executive vice-president, succeeds Arthur B. Newhall whose term of office as president expired.

Born in Arlington, Mass., Mr. Munch was graduated from Amherst College in 1915. He joined the Hood Company as a merchandising executive in 1918 after working for Gillette Safety Razor Company in a similar capacity.

In 1933 he was elected vice-president and sales manager of Hood and in May, 1939, executive vice-president. His home is in Belmont, Mass.

FRIGIDAIRE 1940 PRODUCTS SHOWN

Directed by executives from Dayton, O., the introduction of 1940 electric refrigerators, electric ranges and electric water heaters manufactured by Frigidaire Division, General Motors Sales Corp., was made yesterday to New England dealers and salesmen at the Hotel Somerset.

J. S. Pfeil, New England manager, was host at the meeting. A victory flag was presented by E. G. Biechler, chief executive of the Frigidaire Division, for attaining in excess of 120 per cent of quota.

W. I. Buchanan was the principal speaker at the meeting.

FARM INCOME DROPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The income of American farmers from marketing during the first 11 months of 1939 was estimated at $8,360,000,000 by the Agricultural Department today. This was 2 per cent less than the income during the similar 1938 period.

15,000 CELEBRATE NO-UNION VICTORY

JOHNSON CITY, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—All plants of the big Endicott-Johnson Shoe Corp. closed today as a majority of 15,000 workers who yesterday rejected unionization, 5 to 1, left their benches and swept through the streets in celebration.

The vote was 1612 for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, 1079 in favor of a Congress of Industrial Organization union and 12,693 for no affiliation.

As the celebration gained momentum, with parades, back-firing automobiles and much shouting merchants of this city, once rechristened Johnson City in honor of George F. Johnson, 82-year-old head of the firm, closed their establishments and joined in the fun

PRAYERS FOR FIRM HEAD

Johnson, for whom special prayer services have been conducted by Protestant ministers, Catholic priests and Salvation Army workers, remained seriously ill with pneumonia in a hospital.

Charles F. Johnson, Jr., vice-president and general manager, commenting on yesterday's vote under direction of the labor relations board, declared

"The policies of the company have been proved sound. They couldn't shake the loyalty and faith of the workers in George F."

Before the vote was announced last night, agents of both the CIO and A. F. of L. announced they were considering a protest because of "anti-union" demonstration.

Frank McGrath, New York city CIO organizer, viewed the result with gloom.

"Talk about Harlan, Ky.—This town is different but just as tough," he asserted.

LOYAL TO EMPLOYER

Charles F. Johnson, Jr., said he went from "factory to factory trying to sell the idea of keeping at work today, but apparently I'm no good as a salesman."

The company operates about a score of plants in Johnson City, and nearby Binghamton, Endicott and Oswego. The election was the second largest ever conducted by the NLRB.

George F. Johnson, who began work as an $18 a week shoeworker in Binghamton, pioneered in employe profit-sharing. He provided community stores, free libraries, parks and other facilities for employes. Last year he was given the Forbes award as the man who has done most to humanize business.

Auto Gossip

BI OTTO SCOOPS

Exactly 45 years ago the first pneumatic tire was developed for the use of automobiles—That same year 1895, Chicago sponsored the first auto race in the U. S.—Many an equine was scared out of his quivering skin when the entrants chugged up to the starting line—tnree years after, 1898, came the equivalent of "pull over there," the first arrest for automobile speeding in Boston—Motoring was forbidden in city parks the following year . . . Although we are a bit late in reporting it, the men at Packard Motor presented Paul Robey, UC mgr., with a beautiful desk lamp for Christmas.

Harold Hanscum of Henley-Kimball's has jumped into an early lead for the January sales contest of $250 in cash . . . That quiet and unassuming chap you see busily engaged selling cars at Connolly's Eighton Buick is Bill Roome and he's doing a very good job . . . Employed by the Royal Tire, he sits snug by his fire, not worried by the hair that he loses. No worries, no fret and it's a safe bet it's because of the bay rum he uses—who is it? . . . Genial Dan McDevitt, the popular school committeeman, knows a good many things about selling cars, as testified by the activity around his West Roxbury outfit.

George "Raffles" Castles of E. E. Wadsworth is an Indian-giver—the box of candy that he presented to the girls there diminished on his every trip into the office . . . A well-deserved climax to Harold O'Neil's grand Christmas window was the letter he received from E. P. O'Shields, asst. director of the Dodge factory in Detroit, which congratulated Harold in splendid fashion . . . The South Shore ditty is "When down South Weymouth way be sure to hear Walter Feeley's say" . . . The wife of John J. Cahill, owner of Newton Motor Sales, left Friday to spend the winter in Miami, the land of sunshine.

Blue Hill Pontiac chief, Dave Delaney had medicine man, Eddie Covell, catch new girl to take the place of Bertha Fleischmann, who recently became a squaw . . . This year should be good to Rudolph Husie, UC mgr. of Edward Everett Motors—his courage best off no less than four attacks of the grippe this last year . . . Ray Lawton, of McDevitt Chev., is a super-bowler (he practises on the miniature home alleys) . . . Frank Cantwell, formerly with Reardon-Woodward, doing very well for Brodigan Motors . . . Ted Brady took time off from his many duties at Stilphen Motors to breathe a few words of optimism for the Ford people as well as the whole auto industry for the new year . . . Sales Mgr. Durkin of Community Pontiac in Brighton is being kept on the go these days closing many deals.

Ed Wood, well known service mgr., is now greeting the service patrons at Biltmore Motors in Malden . . . Ted Rourke joined the sales staff at Main St. Garage, Olds dealers in Cambridge—Last week he broke the ice the first day with a 38 Olds—Best of luck, Ted! Bill Sohmer of Union Motor Sales in Somerville has a sales record that qualifies him as a Pontiac master salesman—an Olds sales leader, and a Cadillac-LaSalle janitor—He would have sold 500 cars last year, had he sold 365 more units.

Peter Adamian, Somerville Buick boss is due back today with his wife after a two weeks' visit with relatives in Detroit . . . Business is humming at Ullian's Buick in Chelsea these days—The service dept. has been working day and night in an effort to catch up . . . Al Abbott, gen. mgr. of Cypress Motors is buying a new house in Needham—Walter Smith of the same firm is leaving Monday for a vacation at Palm Beach . . . Tom Kehoe of Morley Motors reports his health is great and so is business . . . Frank Cousins of Arthur Coombs Co. is being kept busy on a deal of gigantic proportions.

Rumor has it Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, Hub Chev. boss, will spend a few weeks in sunny Florida, leaving some time this week.

Jack Sheehan, well known auto salesman, after an absence of 2 yrs., is back selling cars for Amory Motors

AUSTEN LAKE

Museum Pieces From This Pillar's Mail Pouch

HEREWITH IS OFFERED A COLLECTION of curiosa culled from this corner's mailbag over a period of weeks. It is presented, not in a spirit of ridicule, but as a mosaic of the sort of trivia, tears, wisdom and whatnot that goes to make this job a goofy joy.

AUSTEN LAKE

Sir—Remembering your sympathetic treatment of Spiritualism in your series on Lilydale, N. Y., some time ago (Ed Note—Lilydale is the psychic city, summer colony of celestial communicants) I am writing to tell you an unusual experience. A friend of mine, a trance medium, was giving us a private reading. His "teacher," or control, is Christy Mathewson, the late Giant pitcher. During the seance one of the group, a baseball fan, asked Mathewson to predict the outcome of the 1940 baseball race. As nearly as I remember the order of the teams was given as follows: American League—Red Sox; 2, Yankees; 3, Cleveland; 4, White Sox; 5, Detroit; 6, Washington; 7, Philadelphia; 8, St. Louis. National League—Giants; 2, Pirates, Reds, Cubs, Cardinals, Brooklyn, Braves and Philadelphia.—JTB, Bangor.

Ans.—The medium's "teacher" must have been absent from current baseball affairs for some time. The "Braves" are now the Bees, and the Red Sox, at this early winter date, have not done anything much to improve their pitching power not enough to warrant displacing the Yankees. Also "Mathewson" has let his old loyalties romp away with his reason, if he thinks the Giants rate top position in the N. L.

THIS IS A DELUXE BUSINESS opportunity for some enterprising go-getter.

Sir As you know I am the inventor of that new football helmet, "the million-dollar helmet," which I will sell for only $20,000 and, Mr. Lake, you are the man to make this come true with good write-ups in your column and if you can find a buyer $5000 is yours.

I also have something which the baseball leagues will be interested in- the 'Aero homerun baseball bat' that never fails to put through a homerun when needed. It sounds rather unbelievable but it is more than true. It drives a ball 1½ times further than any present baseball bat. I will sell this new feature for only $25,000 cash and, Mr. Lake, you will get $5000. If your paper is interested in a little cash I'll raise the price to $30,000 for the helmet and $35,000 for the bat. Waiting to hear if my terms are suitable.—CGG, Bridgewater.

Ans.—Your terms are attractive, particularly for the Aero bat. But the price is too cheap! If the bat, a la Aladdin's lamp, delivers a homer to order, Tom Yawkey will give you a million spot cash. Only there are a few athletes on the Sox who, even if they did hit a ball half again as far, would still be short of a home run.

AND THIS IS A PLAINTIVE, PENCILLED PLEA with evidence of unbounded faith: Sir: I am not reder of papers bot fater large fambly . . . I ned hunret doler bad. My boy in trubel, and ned hundert doler to kep him off Jale. Plese Mr. Lake do this fin thing. I got bad silknis to and mrs sik to. She dont work non and son I get putt of stret mabe mondy send mony pies befor an adres is . . . JJP, Charleston.

Ans.—Sport writers are habitually impoverished people, hence no hundred. Beyond that I question if $100 would solve so many troubles.

AMERICAN, RECORD FETE 'ALL' GRIDDERS TONIGHT

Eleven Greater Boston high school seniors, members of the 1939 Board of Coaches All Scholastic football team, will receive gold engraved footballs at the Boston Evening American-Daily Record banquet to be held at the Hotel Lenox tonight.

Eleven honored guests will don bibs with the six schoolboy coaches who picked the official team, and who will also receive builder-uppers breaking down with appropriate talks to the cream of the schoolboy crop a group that any college coach would welcome to his campus come September.

These mentors, who spent valuable time in sorting over the long list of prospects, include Harry Downes, Brookline; Fred Ostergren, Arlington; Jim Mansfield, Haverhill; Bill Broderick, Salem; Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park, and Bill Ohrenberger, Boston English.

JOE McKENNEY

AL McCOY

Guest speakers tonight at the All-Scholastic banquet sponsored by the Boston American-Daily Record.

The eleven guests of honor will be Bernie Lanoue and Bob Barney, Brockton; Bill Kirrane, Brookline; Joe King, Boston English; John Furey, Medford; Weldon Osborne Salem; Ed Toblin, Arlington; Phil Harvey, Everett; Ronald Sliney B. C. High; John Callaghy, Lawrence and Bob Mangene, Malden.

All will be there to hear Joe McKenney, director of Physical Education in the Boston schools, and Al McCoy, football coach at Colby College, as guest speakers.

McKenney, former captain and coach of Boston College, has built up the Boston school athletic system to an enviable peak. His most recent accomplishment was the reintroduction of hockey to the sports program, a much needed and cried-for filler in the long winter stretch.

McCOY A GREAT BUILDER

McCoy has also proved a builder in the sports line in the past years. This past fall, Al moved Colby out of the grid cellar, and it's an amazing story too, to the co championship of the Maine conference while stopping Bowdoin's monopoly on the title.

Previously, McCoy put intown Northeastern University on the athletic map, taking over football basketball and baseball in the school that, up to his time, never boasted a varsity team.

So tonight, there'll be a pair of

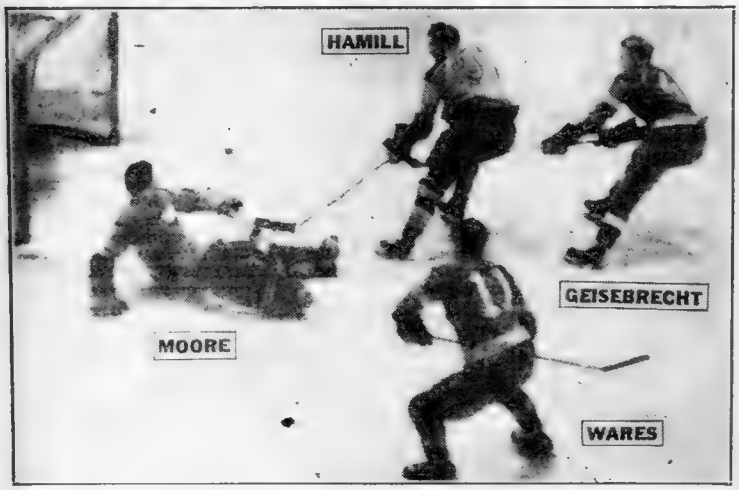
BRUINS JUMP INTO TRIPLE TIE FOR TOP



BEST GOAL OF THE YEAR—"Red" Hamill of the Bruins completely fooled Goalie Alfie Moore of the Detroit Red Wings when he feinted him out of position and slipped the rubber into the strings. Hamill took a perfectly timed pass from Bill Cowley.

SHORE SEEN HEADED FOR AMERKS TO HELP LIFT THEM OUT OF RED

The Bruins leave tonight for Toronto where they meet the Maple Leafs tomorrow . . . Due to the fact that the Bruins, Maple Leafs and Rangers are now deadlocked in a three-cornerd first-place tie, the Maple Leaf Gardens will be packed to capacity tomorrow night . . . Milt Schmidt picked up another assist last night and now he has 22 points and is only three behind Gordie Drillon, the injured Maple Leaf, who is still leading the league . . . "Toe" Blake is one point out in front of "Schmiddy" . . .

In the event Thompson hasn't recovered by Friday night when the Wings are scheduled to play the Amerks, Mgr. Adams will use Johnny Mower, an amateur in the nets . . . Alfie Moore is on his way to Indianapolis to replace Jimmy Franks who was operated on yesterday for a hernia . . . Mower played goal for Niagara Falls, Ont., last season and has been in the Detroit city league this season.

Judging from the attendances or lack of attendance, the hockey fans are shopping this season . . . They know that the Rangers and Maple Leafs are the only clubs that give the Bruins enough worthwhile opposition to warrant pushing their hard earned dough into the box office.

Manager Art Ross pulled out on the midnight to attend the N. H. L. special meeting today in New York . . . Ross will demand that the league fine Connie Smythe $1000 for the blast he took in the public press at the type of hockey played by the Bruins . . . But, the main issue at today's meeting was to be Smythe's demand that the N. H. L. protects his territorial rights of the City of Buffalo.

It may be that Nels Stewart wasn't kidding when he stated that he expected to see Eddie Shore in the American lineup any night . . . Eddie has been spending considerable of his time in New York since he became a hockey magnate . . . And, the Amerks' dressing room is his hang out . . . The Bruins are considering asking for waivers on Shore, in order, so the story goes, that Mr. Hockey may play with the Springfield Indians . . . On the other hand, the Americans are flopping financially . . . And, they are also doing a pretty good job on the other six clubs in away from home games . . .

The Amerks are owned by the National Hockey League . . . The league is not desirous of finishing in the "red" with the Amerks . . . Eddie Shore is the biggest attraction in N. H. L. . . . If he should be moved into New York, the crowds would flock to the games . . . But what about Shore's $26,000 investment in the Springfield Indians' . . . That's heavy sugar for anyone . . . Even for a hockey player who drew down Shore's salaries for years . . . Then, too, why should Canadiens, Detroit and Chicago waive on Shore? . . . He'd look pretty potent on the defense of any of those clubs and he wouldn't be exactly out of place with Bruins, Toronto or Rangers . . . Of course, the Bruins could sell Mr. Hockey to the Americans and avoid any controversies over waivers . . .

Carson Cooper, who played right wing for the old Bruins, is Jack Adams' chief scout and assistant . . . "Coop" made the swing around the circuit with the Red Wings on this trip . . . He must have thought it was Old Home Week when he arrivec at the Garden . . . Met friends he hadn't seen in years . . . Coop stated that his old side kick Jimmy Herbert is up in the north country and yelling his head off to get back into civilization.

Small Crowd Sees Wings Give Locals Soft Win

By BILL GRIMES

Winding up the first half of their 1939-40 campaign with a 3 to 1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings, the Bruins moved into a three cornered tie for first place with Rangers and Toronto after last night's game at the Boston Garden.

Tiny Thompson didn't make the trip with the Wings. He has been suffering with a sacroiliac for a fortnight, and, after Sunday's game with Rangers in New York, Manager Jack Adams ordered him to return to Detroit.

Alfie Moore, who is the spare goalie of the N. H. L., replaced Thompson in the Detroit nets. Moore hadn't had pads on in two weeks but he turned in a very fine performance, making a number of spectacular spares.

The cash customers were conspicuous by their absence. In fact it was one of the smallest crowds that Bruins have played to in the Garden.

The Bruins came up with their first goal during the eighth minute of the first period. And as was the case against Americans, the Krauts were the first Boston scorers.

DIDN'T WASTE TIME

Bobby Bauer broke down the right wing but Elbie Goodfellow poke checked the puck off his stick, and the disc went into the corner where it was picked up by Milt Schmidt. Bauer circled and was out by the blue line when "Schmiddy" recovered the puck Seeing Bobby uncovered, Schmidt passed out to the little right winger, who in turn, flipped the puck forward to Woody Dumart, about ten feet out from the crease. Dumart didn't waste any time dribbling the puck to pull Moore out of position. Instead, he simply batted the rubber and it flew into the cage.

The Bauer to Dumart to the net was so fast that Moore didn't even have a chance to shift.

The Rossmen altered their offense in the second period on Herbie Cain's goal. Instead of batting the puck into the net, Cain pecked at it and again Alfie Moore was outlucked.

Art Jackson figured in the Cain goal. In fact, he started and set up the play, which would have gone for naught, however, but for Cain's long reach.

Art went into Detroit territory, down the right wing boards, and when he was checked centered the puck. Cain was all alone on the opposite wing but he had to put on a burst of speed to make connections. In fact, he almost failed, for the very end of the blade of his stick was all that contacted the disc. But that was enough, for in it went and the Bruins were two goals out in front.

TAKES IT ON FLY

Thirty seconds after the faceoff of the third period, Bill Cowley and "Red" Hamill staged the fastest play of the night. Cowley, grabbing the disc in the center zone, spotted Hamill racing down the left wing at top speed and whipped a pass so perfectly timed that Hamill was in the clear beyond the Red Wing defense when he made the completion in stride. Moore was at Hamill's mercy and Red didn't show any. He rifled a shot right at the bull's eye and scored to complete the Bruins work for the night.

'Pic Juniors Meet Rangers

The Junior Olympics, heroes of the New York combat with the Exchange Brokers last Sunday, open their New England amateur hockey league season tonight when they face the Boston Rangers at the Garden.

The Rangers already have played one league game, losing to Springfield Braves 5-2, last Sunday.

Although the juniors are defending champions and have some commendable victories to their credit this season, they will have to look to their laurels tonight because the Rangers, now being coached by Hans Weinberger of Austria, have improved tremendously under his tutelage.

Lineups at the Garden:

JUNIORS	RANGERS
Rondeau, lw	rw, Derocho
Garron, c	c, Isola
Fitzgerald, rw	lw, Pope
Cousins, rd	rd, Bingham
Robinson, rd	ld, Haggerty
Meoli, g	g, Oliver

Spares—Junior Olympics: Buckley, Sena, Cardiff, Sullivan, Lyons, Shaughnessy, Briand, Foster.

Boston Rangers: King, Roubeard, Leger, Rouleau, Harvey, Maker, Wood, Dunn.

IF THERE IS A paradise on earth, it is at Hialeah Park, Fla., which opened its Winter race meeting today.

You could remove all of the thoroughbreds from the Florida track, and it would still be a show place that would attract hundreds of thousands of people in the course of a year. Joseph Widener is so proud of the beauty of Hialeah Park that he keeps the place open throughout the year so that all who wish can visit and enjoy it.

Hialeah Park presents a real tropical setting that has been patterned into perfection by the hand of man. It is said that $50,000 is spent each year in the care of the hundreds of choice tropical palms, bushes and gardens.

When I first visited Hialeah Park, I was impressed by the pink flamingos. Mortimer Mahony told me that when the first consignment of pink flamingos arrived at Hialeah Park nobody thought to cut their wings, and the result was that after they were released in the pond in the center of the infield they flew back to Cuba.

Since then all pink flamingos arriving at Hialeah Park have been obliged to have their wings clipped. There are those unkind persons who remark that patrons of the mutuel machines also have their wings clipped. In Florida, the process is less painful than at most other tracks as the track surroundings are ideal, while the weather is warm and the sun bright.

Opening day at Hialeah Park finds more fine-looking fillies on parade in clubhouse and grandstand that one could hope to see any place else. The dolls appear in the latest sports clothes, and life to most of them is one grand party. They refuse to recognize the seriousness of world affairs, and perhaps they have the right outlook on things.

To these carefree fillies the next year is the thing, and later on it will be dinner at some top night spot and maybe a marriage with a millionaire if they come up with the right number.

THERE IS AN outdoor walking ring under the palm trees. There is green grass for the thoroughbreds to walk on, and if they do get a bit frisky they have plenty of space in which to do their stuff.

Johnny Donovan and all the veteran trainers will be at the Hialeah Park meeting. They will be more interested in winning races and cashing a few healthy mutuel tickets than they will be in the tropical surroundings and evidences of wealth. These trainers, however, will admit that if folks like a little ritz with their betting that there isn't any real harm in giving it to them.

There will be several thousand New England people at the Hialeah opening. Miami has got to be just another city which folks visit like they used to hop to Nantasket Beach or Revere 25 years ago. A mere matter of 1500 to 3000 miles does not mean a great deal to restless Americans. Especially if somebody has given you a few live tips on the horses.

Trying to Beat the Races at Hialeah

ALL OF THE FILLIES and young bloods will be trying to beat the races at Hialeah Park. Those that play favorites will have their share of grief as backers of favorites do at most other tracks.

I like to tell how I used to beat the races at Hialeah Park. I would watch the betting board, and toss out the first and second favorites. I would then purchase win tickets on third, fourth and fifth choices. In numerous cases, I came up with the winning horse without even knowing his name. You may call this "blind" betting, but it is just as effective as many other kinds of gambling.

I shall be in spirit with Dave Wilson and the rest of the carefree crowd at Hialeah Park today. I shall be thinking of the palm trees, the infield lagoon, the pink flamingoes, and of horses that have a chance to win.

WHILE IN NEW YORK this week, I learned that 150 managers of boxers have organized. It is supposed to be a mutual assistance pact, but the main idea behind the group is to prevent Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club from gaining complete control of the boxing game.

The managers do not look with favor on the Twentieth Century's Club policy of signing all boxers it features to long term contracts. These contracts in some cases give the club control of the boxer in all parts of the United States.

The managers fear that if the system keeps progressing that the Twentieth Century Club's next move will be to dispense with managers.

The New York Garden once tried to eliminate as many managers as possible so that it could deal direct with the boxers. The Garden failed in its effort when the managers ganged up on it. The Twentieth Century Club is the present opponent of the managers.

Jack Dempsey is stringing along with the managers. He is opposed to the Twentieth Century Club's strength in the boxing game, and would like to see a Federal Commission take control of boxing.

JOHNNY SKHOR of Baltimore, a graduate of the All-America tournament of a year ago, will step into the New York Garden tonight in a four-round bout with Ralph Ivins as an opponent . . . Captain Roy E. Davis of Chicago has been named national chairman of the A. A. U. boxing committee, while Gene Driscoll of this city has been appointed vice-chairman . . . Driscoll has done a great deal to promote interest in amateur boxing in New England.

B. C. COACH ADVISES SKATERS

By OLYMPIAN

Hey, fellers and girls in training for the great Silver Skates Derby, in which more than 500 knights and ladies of the steel blades will compete for honor, glory and as costly and beautiful prizes as ever were awarded, under the combined auspices of the Boston American-Record-Advertiser in the Boston Garden on Feb. 4, here is a new training wrinkle—shoveling snow!

Yes, honest to goodness—shoveling snow!

The tip is from no less a famous authority than Jack Ryder, champion maker, trainer of Boston College and the Boston A. A., one of the world's greatest conditioners.

If the last fall of snow hasn't been cleared off your favorite skating place get out your shovel and clear it off. The exercise is just what you need for preliminary hardening up.

HARDEN UP NOW

"With the abundance of open pond skating we have had this winter," says Ryder, "and the fact the New England championships are being held early, most of the champions already are in racing condition. But the average skater still needs hardening up before starting the work that sharpens his competitive edge.

"Don't depend simply on skating to harden you up," says Ryder as the famous trainer gets down to the shoveling snow wrinkle. "Build yourself up physically all around. In a hard race a contestant draws reserve energy and strength from his whole body. Exercise all your muscles.

DIG, DURN YOU, DIG!

"Don't let the other fellow clear the skating pond. Do it yourself. At this stage of your training shoveling snow is one of the best hardening up exercises."

There you have it, fellows—shovel snow! Be it ever so painful, get out your shovels and get to work.

"Days you do not skate you should do plenty of walking," concludes the famous trainer.

"There is scarcely any form of competitive sport in which plenty of open air walking is not a necessary training adjunct."

Wisconsin Ace In VFW 2-Mile

Entry of Walter Mehl of Wisconsin, Big Ten mile champ, today completed a fast field for the two-mile special, feature of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' track meet at the Garden Saturday night.

Mehl, winner of the Sugar Bowl 3000 at the expense of Don Lash, will be meeting the Indiana State cop in a return engagement in this event. Also slated to go are Tommy Deckard, national steeplechase champ; Greg Rice of Notre Dame, college champ, and Joe McCluskey, veteran two miler and steeplechaser.

The 600 invitation has also attracted a flashy field, led by Harold Cagle, of Oklahoma Baptist, who won the Prout 600 in the K. of C. games a year ago. Doug Raymond and Dick Gill of the B. A. A. are ready to trade footsteps with Cagle and Jimmy Herbert, N. Y. U. colored speedster, is also negotiating for a place in the starting lineup.

Snow Sports Snapshots

GLORIA CARPENTER, whose dad owns the Plymouth Inn, has recently announced her engagement . . . Cupid is on skis! . . .

SKI SHOTS: That's a grand booklet issued by the Laconia Gilford Area, N. H. . . . Their slogan: "The Spot for Sports!". . .

One thousand winter sports fans journeyed on the season's first "Ski Meister" from New York to Mount Mansfield, Vermont

The Winchester Ski Club will hold a dance on January 19th . . . Ski togs must be worn, but no ski boots . . . And we might add: No "ski heels!". . .

A Children's Fancy Dress Skating Carnival will be sponsored by the Brae Burn Country Club at West Newton on Friday evening . . . There will be prizes for all costumes.

"SNOW TRAINS should be run from New Hampshire to Boston!" At least this is the opinion voiced by scores of skiers when another light snow-fall hit the Hub, entirely missing Northern ski regions. This storm, as usual, "went out to sea!" But skiing in many areas is possible, and a great deal more will soon be probable. Everyone is making the best of what there is to be found.

The snow situation in some spots can be illustrated by the skier in the mountains Sunday who saw another chap eating a little snow to quench his thirst. "Stop!" exclaimed the skier. "Leave some of that to ski on!"

Plenty of open slope running prevails on local golf courses, and all ski schools have been able to conduct classes. Anyway, at this early date in the season, it is much better for everyone to get out on gentle grades and obtain some invaluable practice. Take this opportunity now and go to ski school. Strive for controlled skiing and be ready when the real snow arrives!

TRAIL TRACKS FROM LAST WEEK-END: Searching for snow fields Saturday, we set off for Plymouth, N. H., where the third annual offeial opening of the Swiss Ski School had been scheduled. Lack of the elusive white substance, however, forced Wendelin HILTY, director of the school, to cancel the races and exhibition skiing he had planned. Lessons were given by the incomparable Hans Felsch and Harry Hall on open slopes in Campton Bog. The skiing here, incidentally, was really very good, and it was too bad that more didn't know about conditions at this spot. Nearly a hundred skiers enjoyed a day of grand sport and practice on these slopes under sunny skies of crisp, bright blue, bringing a healthy glow to city cheeks. The going was fast over packed powder and base.

In the game room of the Pemigewasset Hotel Saturday evening Hilty showed movies of several thrilling runs down the Alps in Switzerland. Striking scenes they were, too, as descending skiers seemed to leave a fiery trail of smoky powder in their wake. Other colored films of aqua-planing on water skis at Lake Winnipesaukee were also run.

SKI SPORTRAIT: He never took any lessons, but now he's an expert professional instructor in the Plymouth Swiss Ski School; that is FRED NOSEWORTHY, formerly of Malden. Chatting with this rugged athlete in the "Pemi," we learned that he once lived in Montreal where he won speed skating championships. Later, Fred went to Brighton Academy in Maine and won more recognition as a ski jumper, making record leaps . . .

A natural skier if there ever was one, this chap is absolutely self-taught. He developed himself into a master of the winged boards, then decided he wanted to teach others his art. Arnold Pierpont, then with Hilty, told him of an opening in the Swiss Ski School. So he applied for the job as instructor and obtained it through sheer ability . . .

Fred uses psychology when giving lessons. He is very patient and kind to beginners. He believes that lessons should be made fun, and not just dull routine for pupils; therefore, in the last half hour of a class he lets his charges play games on skis and hold informal races. And nothing improves ones skiing like competition! . . .

Maestro Noseworthy says that anyone who is a good dancer can learn to ski well. All that is needed is plenty of rhythm and coordination, and, of course, lots of hard work and practice . . .

Fred is now working for the Rustcraft Card Company, but will be in Plymouth week-ends and all of February. He will also coach at Colby Junior College. Ask him to show you his "floating christy" that he originated.

STUFF ABOUT SKIERS: Being introduced to "BUSTER" MAYHEW, chief cook at the Plymouth Inn, by our skiing secretary, we discovered how he won his pin for the Standard A Slalom Run. "I was huntin' rabbits on skis one day at the top of Wendy's Slope," discoursed Buster, "Well, sir, all of a sudden, a big bunny starts a-runnin' down th' hill. I starts after him so fast that I passed him, and I couldn't stop 'til I went through a lot o' flags on the slope! Come to find out, they were havin' time trials, and they thought I was one o' the' racers, so I got a pin for makin' th' fastest run! . . . Okay, Buster, but we thought that fishermen, not skiers, told tall tales! . . .

ROYAL BROWN, famous short story writer and novelist, likes skiing in Plymouth so much, that he has built a house there! . . . He's a good skier, too . . .

"REDDY" STEVENSON of Pride's Crossing, now hostess at the "Pemi," has some excellent photographs she took in the late issue of "Mademoiselle" . . .

BARBARA SMITH is at Plymouth for the Winter, mainly to ski . . . Her brother owns the tow on Wendy's Slope . . .

Seen skiing on Cannon Mountain Sunday was VERNON FOSTER of Beacon Hill . . . He said he enjoyed the first half mile down, and then had to "take it easy" the rest of the way . . .

DICK BRADLEY tells us the "WILDCATS" Ski Club racers will be coached by Fred Noseworthy . . . This outfit hopes to lease the Chalet at the Frontenac slope as their headquarters for the season . . .

OSCAR CYR, well-known certified instructor, gave lessons to members of the Dedham Polo Club over the week-end . . . Oscar has applied for a patent on his newly developed ski press, used to keep the boards in shape when idle . . .

Skiing with DICK PERSON, we saw him execute scores of spectacular "royal christies" . . . This likeable lad teaches at Plymouth for no renumeration in order to hold his amateur standing to race . . . Last year, PERSON placed fifth in the New Hampshire Slalom Championships, won by the great Dick Durrance! . . .

NAT NILES of the Swiss Ski School has been ill with the grippe . . . His wife, Jean, at the "Pemi," told us that when the region was devoid of snow, Nat took his class on the ice and taught them how to do figure eights! . . .

Snow Paths Jammed With Boston Skiers

By ANNICE BRINK

Laurentian week-end . . . with the powder snow so good you wanted to eat it . . . and the "furriners," Bostonians and New Yorkers, in St. Sauveur seeming to outnumber the Canadians . . .

Reinette Plimpton looking smooth as smooth in a navy flared skirt with her short jacket spangled with chromium buttons, all done up this way for the trip up on the Red Wing . . . a bell on a ribbon in her hair . . . and traveling with a party that included Roger William of Hingham, and her brother, Steve, who considered every target a fair one for his miniature movie camera.

MILTONITES PRESENT

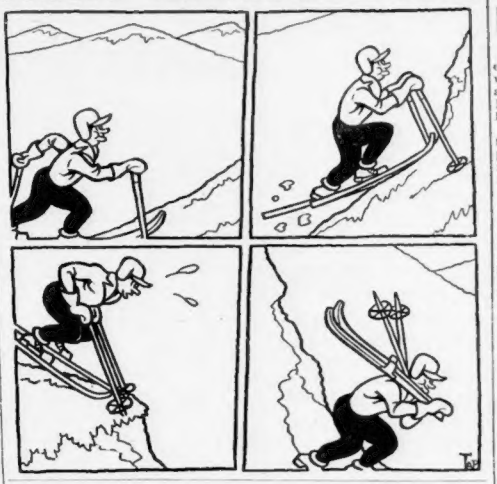
As the day darkened, Nymark's taproom would bulge with skiiers, Buster George of Milton, Max Talbot and his sister, Kitty, among them . . . and Audrey Gray of New York, being very happy and glow-faced with her heart, Ted Pratt of Montreal, and trying not to think that soon he'd sail overseas with the 7th Med. Battery . . . and Earl Lathrop and Harry Marshall of Newton, drying out before one of the big fireplaces.

No one would think of walking the few hundred yards to the Pub or Val Riant as long as sleighs were around . . . and I would hang onto the rope in back as Aubrey, charretier, shouted "Vite, Vite!" to the horses, and snow would fly into my face, and I'd hope the railroad tracks wouldn't catch the tip of my skiis . . . "A droit! a droit" and there would be the Pub of the Hotel des Monts, with everyone piling in to be sure of a place . . . Bob Bradford of Marlborough st. looking around before going off to the party at the Piedmont Country Club . . . and then suddenly amid the noise of "Alouette," and that one about the rrarram Dutch, and some standing up very solemnly to sing "God Save the King," it's midnight . . . the New Year's coming in with a roar, and a hurricane of kissing, stranger smacked by stranger impartially, whirling through the smoky rooms . . .

EVERYONE IS TIRED

Another day of perfect powder snow . . . the packing party at Nymark's when Blaik Knox and new-found Canadian bosom pals packed the Marshall and Lathrop luggage while the owners had their last beer . . . then every sleigh from St. Sauveur anywhere from ten minutes to half an hour getting to Piedmont Station, but that was all right because the 6:45 was 45 minutes late . . . Suddenly, in the gas-lit train, everyone sitting on luggage in the middle of the aisle, the discovery that we're uproariously hungry . . . and a party of French people saying, "But we have a quartermaster here, and if there's anything you'd like to eat, just mention it." Imagination stretches a point, and we say, "Hard boiled eggs!" Lo! they appear . . . and pickled French Canadian eggs, too . . . and everyone's pretty awfully tired when the Red Wing picks us up at Montreal West, with berths looking like heaven . . . it's over, and this that you've read is so very, very little of the exciting, blissful whole . . . but it'll have to be enough, until you find out for yourself . . .

STORY WITHOUT WORDS



NEWPORT SKI GROUP IMPROVES N.H. TRAIL

Skiing on Sunapee Mountain, at Newbury, has been improved for the current season by the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests and by the Newport Ski Club.

The former Newport Ski Club ski trail is now called the Newbury ski trail, for brevity. It has been completely cleared from Newbury to the top of the south peak, and a new finish has been cut, making the descent more direct.

The trail varies from 15 to 40 feet in width, the steeper sections being between 25 and 40 feet. The downhill section has a total drop of 1500 feet in a mile and a half. At the upper end the trail extends for another mile.

As before, the cottage on the society's land at the trail's base will be open to skiers for warming themselves and for waxing skis. A new Adirondack-type shelter, which can be reached from the Newbury ski trail, has been built near Lake Solitude.

The Edgemont trail and the Hollis trail, which are summer foot trails suitable for skiing, have been brushed out and marked. Sections of these trails, which are the width of old logging roads, offer mild grades for downhill skiing.

Information on local snow conditions may be obtained from William Davis of Newbury.

Snow fences, commonly used to protect highways from snow drifts may become regular equipment for mountain ski trails which are subject to heavy use. Experiments are being made this winter on the ski trails at Cannon Mountain in Franconia Notch, N. H.

Roland E. Peabody hopes that they will help in two ways. At points where a trail is exposed to the wind the fence may help to prevent the wind-blown condition which makes skiing difficult and dangerous.

Bigger Rose Bowl?

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 10 (AP)—City directors are considering enlarging the Rose Bowl, scene of the annual New Year's football game, from 83,750 seats to 100,000.

Director George L. Shuler told the board that hundreds of visitors, here during the holiday season, were disappointed by inability to attend the game.

Sports Show Here, Feb. 3-11

Action and thrills in a pine-scented setting of forest, lake and stream will be packed into New England's annual sportsmen's and boat show, February 3 to 11, at Mechanics Building, Boston.

The entire North American Continent has been combed during the past year by the management for new attractions for this popular exhibition.

From Alaska there will be the Mayokok family of Eskimos, featuring intrepid David Irwin's Arctic village. Irwin is the only man ever to trek alone across Arctic America, a death-defying 3600-mile journey over barriers of snow and ice.

ENJOY Winter sports AT THEIR BEST Telephone Ahead

You're looking ahead—planning ahead — for a perfect week-end of skiing, tobogganing or skating. Resorts are doing everything possible to accommodate everybody. But "first come, first served" — so, why not make sure your week-end of winter sports will be really perfect by telephoning ahead. Out-of-town calls are especially cheap evenings after 7 and all day Sunday.

IVY FACES SALAMONE IN MACK CO-FEATURE

Bob "Poison" Ivy of Hartford, who tangles with George Salamone in one of the feature 10-rounders on Eddie Mack's Argonne A. A. card at Mechanics Hall tomorrow, is rated well up in featherweight ranks.

The hustling club fighter, like Salamon, numbers Jerry Zullo of Chelsea among his kayo victims.

Despite his record, Ivy will have to step fast to get past Mr. Salamone. The latter, a graduate of Hearst amateur ranks, looks like one of the finest prospects ever developed in this section. East Boston always turns out en masse to see him perform.

In the co-feature, Paul Junior, who made Lou Ambers hustle for eight rounds in their 10-round bout here last winter, will take on Carl Red Guggino of Hartford, with whom he fought a slashing draw at New Britain, Ct., recently.

Casey Defends Wrestling Title

Twin main bouts, with the world's champion and two former champions, in the headline roles, will feature Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling tournament tonight at the Boston Arena.

In one, Steve "Crusher" Casey, the big Irish fisherman, defends his crown against Rebel Rob Russell, while the other will have Marvin Westenberg and Yvon Robert attempting to settle a feud which has grown bitter.

MAIN BOUTS
(Each best two falls in three)
Steve Casey, Ireland, champion, vs. Rebel Bob Russell, Newport, challenger.
Marvin Westenberg, Tacoma, Wash., vs. Yvon Robert, Montreal.
SEMI-FINAL
(One fall to win)
Ernest Franz Hefner, Texas, vs. Bull Martin, Trenton, N. J.
PRELIMINARIES
Frank Marconi, Oregon, vs. Harry Finkelstein, Boston.
Leo Lefebvre, Montreal, vs. Ed Newman, New York.
(First bout at 8:15. First main event about 9:30.)

I suggest the city welfare for the money, the District Nurses Ass'n for the illness and the neighborhood rectory for the son-trouble.

Here is one in the familiar, rubber stamp pattern of the stranded horse tout:

Sir—I have a sure-fire system for playing the winter books and it ain't bank either. My system is like nothing you ever heard and is based on records of horses claimed all over the country. I could have made a million if I had the money to play. It would be a God send to the Boston people, who have taken a bad licking, and I am willing to give you my sure-fire daily pick and leave the price to you . . . PLT, Boston General Delivery.

Ans.—But the Boston bookies have to make a living too! If the Red Sox, with the Aero bat, hit nothing but homeruns and the Boston betters, with your sure-fire pick, did nothing but cash their winnings, what an uninteresting city this would be.

THIS IS ONE AFLAME WITH PARDONABLE AMBITION:

Sir—Some time ago the old Braves, in partnership with your paper, ran a baseball contest, which Elbie Fletcher of Milton won. I know there are a lot of young players as good or better than Elbie was and I am conceited enough to think I am one. I wrote to the Bees and Red Sox but all I got was polite letters. I know Mr. Collins and Mr. Quinn listen to the Boston sport writers because they have to. Would you be willing to ask one of them to take me South next month? . . . CTR, East Boston.

Ans.—You have no idea how much Mr. Collins and Mr. Quinn do not listen to the sport authors, even while appearing to do so. Sport writers, universally are cockleburrs under the magnate's shirt. But if you are of major league caliber, CTR, fret not! Your skill will inevitably come under the ken of some scout. That's the only known door to the major leagues.

There are others in the month's mail. You don't suppose they are pulling our editorial leg do you?
